Emergency Aid Rushed To 4-State Flood Area

Eastern Coal Mining Region Hit Hardest

11 Dead Counted; Loss Runs Into Millions; More Havoc Feared

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Emergency aid was rushed into the eastern coal mining region today where thousands of persons in four states are homeless and whole towns stricken from a devastating flood.

High waters that left at least 11 dead in two states and damages running into untold millions of dollars raced downstream today, threatening havoc on still more communities.

The flood that swept suddenly out of the mountains into southeastern Kentucky, West Virginia, southern Virginia and east Tennessee already was recorded as the region's worst in this century if not in history.

Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia Wednesday night joined Kentucky's Gov. A. B. Chandler in petitioning President Eisenhower for immediate help. Eight of the dead were counted in Kentucky and three in West Virginia.

In Kentucky, Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Beattyville shored up barriers against the onrushing Kentucky River even as mud-covered cities in the flood's wake called for water purifiers and typhoid vaccine.

AT LEAST A thousand persons fled their homes at Prestonsburg where Wednesday night a fire broke out, destroying three buildings. All firemen could do was let it burn itself out and prevent it from spreading.

The Army at Ft. Knox sent soldiers, medical corps men and supplies to stricken areas with the help of the National Guard, Red Cross and Civil Defense.

Army helicopters dropped through overcast skies to take typhoid serum, medicine, blankets and foods to isolated communities.

Col. R. E. Smyser Jr., Ohio River Division chief engineer, said the worst of the flood in Kentucky is over "if we don't get any more rain."

Col. Smyser said that the big job now is cleaning up, "and it will be terrific." He said the Salvation Army, Red Cross and local agencies are doing a mag-

Taxpayers Take Judge's Ruling To Appeals Court

Dismissal of School Merger Issue Going To District Tribunal

The 12 taxpayers, who last May 4 filed a suit in Probate Court here asking that a Citizens Committee be formed here to study the school problems of Fayette County as a whole, late Wednesday filed notice of appeal in the district appellate court from the dismissal of the second cause of action by Judge John H. Houston.

The second cause of action challenged the validity of the transfer of the Bloomingburg, Jefferson and Paint local school districts to the Miami Trace district.

The first cause of action in the taxpayers' suit asked declaratory judgment for the creation of a Citizens Committee. Trial of this cause of action started last Thursday before Judge Houston, but was recessed Friday until Feb. 6.

* * *

DEFENDANTS in the original suit are the boards of education of the Miami Trace, Fayette County, Bloomingburg, Jefferson, Paint and Washington C. H. districts.

Later, the Washington C. H. board, in its answer, admitted the allegations in the taxpayers' petition were true.

Judge Houston sustained a demurrer filed by the remaining school boards to the second cause of action in a decision filed Nov. 3 and in a journal entry Jan. 11 he said: "The plaintiffs (taxpayers) were given until Nov. 9 to amend the second cause of action in their first amended petition, the same having not been amended, or any further pleadings filed, and the plaintiffs not desiring to plead further, the court finds the second cause of action should be dismissed."

* * *

IN OVERRULING the defendants' demurrer to the first cause of action, Judge Houston paved the way for trial on its merits the taxpayers' request for a court order to form a Citizens Committee. This is the trial that started last week and will be resumed Wednesday.

Although the dismissal of the second cause of action sustained the validity of the transfer of the Bloomingburg, Jefferson and Paint districts to Miami Trace district, Judge Houston, in his decision on the defendant boards demurrer, held that there are still three school districts—Miami Trace, Fayette County and Washington C. H.—enough, under the law to form a Citizens Committee.

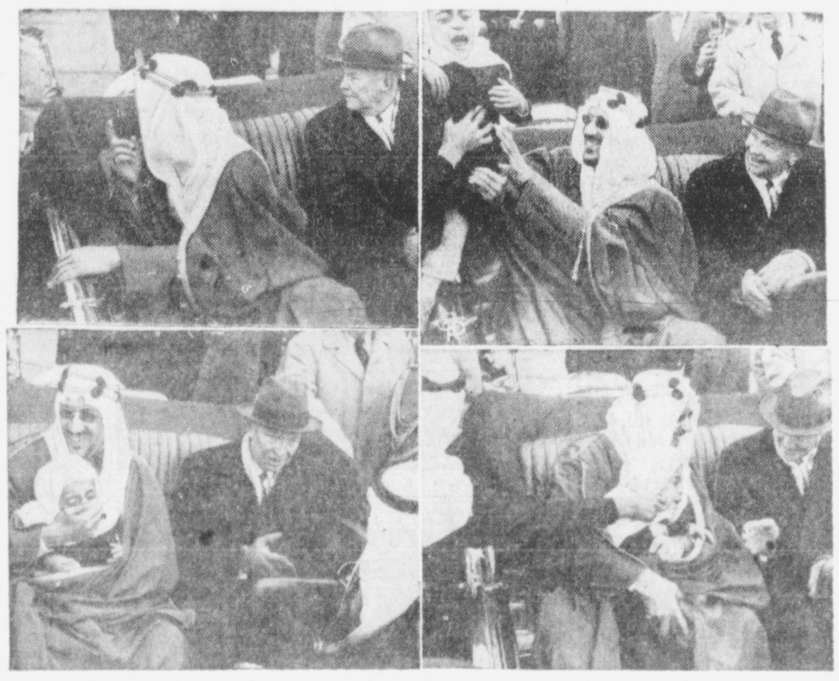

The taxpayers based their request for a Citizens Committee on the allegation that a petition requesting such a committee had been filed with the Fayette County Board on Nov. 4, 1955 and that the board had taken no action on it.

Judge Houston was assigned to hear the case after Judge Robert L. Brubaker of the Fayette County Probate Court had disqualified himself.

Springfield Attorney Claims 'Threatening Call' from Jeff

A Springfield attorney who said she received a threatening telephone call from Jeffersonville was assured by Sheriff Orland Hays Thursday that "law enforcement has not broken down in Fayette County" and that she may feel completely safe in attending a meeting of the Jeffersonville Council Monday night in connection with a traffic ticket handed to a client.

The attorney, Mrs. Adelaide Seip, said she believed the call was from a "crank", "I thought it was funny", she said.

But Sheriff Hays and County Prosecutor Rollo Marchant are going to be sure — they, too, will attend the Jeffersonville Council session.

The woman attorney Monday defended Richard Wright, 28, of Springfield, who testified he received no receipt for his bail money on a charge of violating a stop light in Jeffersonville.

Testimony at the hearing was that Police Chief Ernest Fout had failed to write the date of the arrest on the ticket, had not notified Mayor Russell Mitchell and did not turn over the money until Monday night.

After the trial, Mayor Mitchell said the police officer's case would be brought up for discussion at Monday's regular village council meeting.

* * *

MRS. SEIP who said she would file a motion for a new trial in the mayor's court, gave this account of the "hoax" telephone conversation:

Her caller, she said, told her that Jeffersonville is "a peaceful community."

"We don't want anyone to interfere," Attorney Seip quoted the man as saying.

"Just don't show up Monday night. Stay out of here," she said the man told her before he hung up.

* * *

BUT Mrs. Seip said she will be at Monday's council meeting and she added she'll be accompanied by several persons who have called her claiming they received traffic tickets and posted bail in Jeffersonville.

Village records list no traffic arrests made between Oct. 23 and Jan. 20, the day Wright was charged with crashing the town's only traffic light, Mrs. Seip said.

Mrs. Seip said if the motion for a new trial is rejected in the mayor's court, she will appeal the case in Fayette County Common Pleas court on the basis that her client's constitutional rights were violated.

* * *

IN A SPECIAL session, attended by all six of the village council members Monday night, Fout admitted he should have given Wright a receipt for his $10 bail money. He said he did not turn over the money because "it slipped my mind."

Wright, along with his wife and her mother, testified that Fout gave him a ticket on Sunday, Jan. 20, and cited him to appear before the mayor last Wednesday. Wright came back Wednesday—with Mrs. Seip—and found that Mayor Mitchell, who is recovering from a heart attack, had planned no court session.

Village Solicitor Reed M. Winegardner told Fout he should have turned over the bail money to the mayor but recommended Wright be found guilty. He was and paid a fine of $3 plus $1.80 costs.

When asked if he had any other money belonging to the village, Fout told Winegardner "No, sir."

Mothers Out Tonight in Polio Benefit

Will your porchlight be on tonight?

More than 100 mothers in Washington C. H., Cub Scouts in Jeffersonville and Y-Teen girls in Bloomingburg, will be marching the streets Thursday evening, hoping to see that it is.

The porchlight is a symbol of willingness to give to the annual Mothers March for Polio, which will be held in all three communities — and all across the nation—from 7 to 9 p. m.

The group will be collecting funds for the National Infantile Paralysis Foundation, to be used in the battle to conquer polio. Despite the Salk vaccine, more than 16,000 people were stricken with the disease last year.

* * *

EACH YEAR the drive is held throughout the nation on Jan. 31, the birthday anniversary of ex-President Franklin D. Roosevelt, who suffered from polio most of his life.

Directing the campaign in the city is Mrs. Dwight Coffman. Mrs. Harry Craig is directing the campaign in Bloomingburg, and Mrs. Eldon Long in Jeffersonville.

Areas outside the three communities will be canvassed by the mother's march, but not all of it will be done tonight. Mrs. C. E. Rhoad, who is co-chairman of the rural drive along with Mrs. Harry Campbell, said it may take "a week or two" to complete the rural campaign.

AS A SIDELINE of the rural drive, campaigners will take a sort of a "vaccine census," to see how many rural children have taken advantage of the Fayette County Salk vaccine clinics. If there's enough call for it, there's a possi-

'J. James' Returns Loot From Holdup

ALTON, Ill. (AP)—A mysterious package arrived Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Evans. It bore a Jacksonville, Ill., postmark and only "J. James" for a return address.

Mrs. Evans opened it and found ,712.

This was about $2,700 more than she reported to police was taken from her in a stickup Monday.

With the money was a note:

New Move Launched To Call Ohio Legislature Each Year

COLUMBUS (AP)—A new move to switch the Ohio Legislature to annual sessions has bobbed up.

Two years ago, the Ohio House approved a similar amendment to the state constitution, but it died in the Senate.

The new bid for annual sessions was made in the Senate Wednesday by Sen. J. E. Simpson (R-Hardin). The constitution now provides for sessions of the General Assembly every two years in the odd-numbered years.

House leaders say they will let the Senate fight the battle of the annual sessions this year. If the Senate should unexpectedly approve the constitutional change, House leaders said, the House probably would follow suit. Final decision would be up to the voters.

School children probably would form the biggest bloc of opposition to aproposal by Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain), chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

He introduced a bill which requires a school to be open for classes 176 days a year in order to qualify for state subsidies. Present law requires 180 days, but includes a number of holidays in that total.

* * *

MOSHER'S BILL would require 176 days of actual instruction.

Mosher is the sponsor also of a bill to give the state board of education authority to initiate school district reorganizations, including creation of new districts and transfer of territory from one district to another. The board's actions would be subject to 55 per cent approval of the voters in the affected areas.

The proposal would permit creation of districts which cross county lines.

The backlog of bills in the two houses reached 258 with the introduction of 38 more Wednesday.

Another batch probably will be introduced today before the lawmakers end their week's session. Wednesday's offerings included measures to:

Increase teacher-training scholarships from two to four years with selections based on oral or written examinations.

Eliminate a provision in the group life insurance law which prohibits the state and other political subdivision from paying employes' premiums.

Authorize school boards to buy liability insurance against on-the-job acts of employes.

Establish a meditation and prayer room in the Capitol building.

Give witnesses before government administrative agencies the right to use a lawyer.

Increase cost of birth certificates from 50 cents to not more than $1.50.

Give the state board of tax appeals authority to set up uniform standards for tax appraisals.

News in Brief

U. S. Seeking Top Friendship With Arabia

WASHINGTON (AP) — U. S. officials were reported hopeful today that King Saud would use his influence as a leader of the Arab world to promote permanent settlements of urgent Middle Eastern questions.

At the top of the list is the need for early agreement between Egypt and the nations which use the Suez Canal on the operation of the waterway when it is reopened in March.

Saud, who began his conference with a private talk with President Eisenhower Wednesday, was to meet today with Secretary of State Dulles. His schedule also called for a luncheon given by Vice President Nixon.

A diplomatic reception in late afternoon and a dinner given by Dulles tonight were to round out the Saudi Arabian monarch's day.

Wednesday night Eisenhower gave a formal dinner in his honor at the White House. The guest list of 58 men included 12 banking and oil company executives. Also present were congressional leaders, ambassadors of the Arab countries and 16 members of the party which accompanied Saud.

Eisenhower received Saud in his office for a private 10-minute talk Wednesday afternoon. Then they joined a group of officials of both countries in the Cabinet room for 90 minutes of discussion. Afterward the President and the King returned to Eisenhower's office for a second private discussion with only an interpreter present.

The major aim of the talks with the King is to convince him of United States friendship and good will toward all the countries in the Middle East.

Possibility Seen for Special Class This Fall

BPW Group Seeks To Contact Parents of Retarded Children

An all-out effort to make direct contacts with parents of retarded children marks a new phase in continuing plans for the establishment of community classes for special education here.

Mrs. June Ramey, chairman of the Business and Professional Women's Club health and safety committee, said Thursday that additional study has been given the project since a meeting held here Nov. 27 and that the next logical step is to find out how many children may be eligible for enrollment.

Mrs. Ramey asks that parents of retarded children, residents of either the city or county, contact her as soon as possible.

She may be reached at 2593 between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m., and at 2-3141 after 5 p. m.

The BPW committee has contacted W. W. Purdy, superintendent of the Urbana city schools, who has explained the organization of two special classes there which operate under an official constitution and bylaws.

* * *

DETAILS of the Urbana plan will be outlined at a meeting of parents which will be called as soon as preliminary data, including numbers and ages of eligible children, can be prepared.

Mrs. Ramey pointed out that organization of a class here may be completed by September, depending on interest shown in the proposal and availability of a suitable teacher.

Gov. C. William O'Neill, at a state BPW meeting in Columbus last Saturday, made it plain that help in establishment of classes for retarded children, is a part of his administrative-legislative program. He emphasized his interest in a message to the General Assembly Monday.

* * *

PROCEDURES for setting up special classes here were outlined by Dr. Roderick N. Purcell, director of special education for the Ohio Division of Mental Hygiene at a meeting here two months ago.

Dr. Purcell pointed out that Ohio's advanced program includes more than 170 special classes in 50 counties. About 115 of these classes receive state aid.

The speaker added that while eligibility is limited under present requirements, rules probably will become more flexible as additional state funds are available.

In order to be eligible for state aid, classes must have between eight and 12 children, usually with an age range of not more than five years.

* * *

THE CHILDREN must be unacceptable in public schools, must have a mental age of about 3 and an intelligence quotient of 50 or below. They must have acceptable home training.

Eligible children should be at least 6 years old and not more than 21.

Citing the excellent opportunities for retarded children in such classes, Dr. Purcell said that Fayette County has at least one potential class and possibly more.

Ike on Wilson and Dulles

AT TURNS thoughtful and delighted, President Eisenhower discusses two of his cabinet members—Defense Secretary Charles Wilson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at a wide-ranging news conference. Wilson, he said, made an unwise statement when he accused the National Guard of harboring Korean war draft dodgers. Dulles, he emphasized, is the greatest secretary of state of our time" and has never taken any action that he (Ike) hasn't approved of.

Defense Boss Faces Stiff Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson faces stiff questioning in Congress on his charge that some of those who enlisted in the National Guard during the Korean War were dodging the draft.

President Eisenhower told a news conference Wednesday the secretary had made a "very unwise statement." But Eisenhower backed Wilson's contention that all new Guard recruits should take six months basic training.

Meantime, Wilson was invited to appear as the opening witness Monday at a House Armed Services subcommittee hearing on all reserve programs, including the Guard.

Chairman Brooks (D-La) said Wilson was invited to "give the subcommittee an elaboration on your views concerning the National Guard, the role the members of that organization have played in the past and what may be expected of them in the future."

A furor developed after Wilson told the full Armed Services Committee last Monday that "a sort of scandal . . . a draft dodging business" developed during the Korean War when youths below the minimum draft age of 18½ "could enlist in the National Guard and not be drafted to fight."

Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, president of the National Guard Assn., called this a "damn lie."

* * *

Wilson Isn't Ultracrepidarian

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma Senate doesn't like what Secretary of Defense Wilson said about the National Guard but it refused Wednesday to call him "ultracrepidarian."

A resolution had been introduced accusing Wilson of "gross and unwarranted insult" when he said in Washington that enlistment in the Guard became a sort of draft dodging business during the Korean War.

Sen. J. R. Hall, a Miami, Okla., duced an amendment which would Democrat, unsuccessfully introduced an amendment which would have inserted "ultracrepidarian." He said it means "going beyond one's province or sphere — presumptuous."

More Pay Talked For Skilled GIs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department is considering proposals that would enable skilled and dedicated military people to be paid more for ability, regardless of length of service.

Present premium pay for length of service would be dropped, but provisions would be included to prevent a pay cut for anyone now in service.

The proposals were made by a committee appointed by Secretary of Defense Wilson to devise additional ways to encourage good men to join and stay in uniform.

Rancher Shuns Army Eviction

New Mexico Missile Range Land Sought

OROGRANDE, N. M. (AP)—Rugged 82-year-old John Prather today shrugged off the news that he had been ordered to vacate his home on the edge of a vast military firing range.

"A man has got a right to die at the home he spent his life building, and that's what I'm going to do," he snorted.

The military and the U. S. attorney have directed the land be vacated by March 1. The home buildings and heart of the ranch are 1½ miles inside the east border of the huge new McGregor guided missile range in south-central New Mexico.

Ten other ranchers besides Prather have been ordered off the range, but only one has gone. Prather has eight sections of good grassland inside the range and many more outside. That inside is the lush section, fed by underground water.

* * *

INFORMED OF the order, Prather, who has spent 50-odd years on his ranch, asked:

"Did that feller say March the 1st of what year?"

Told it was this year, he grinned and said, "I don't believe I'm going to make it. I've decided to finish out my first 100 years and go ahead and live another hundred to beat these people."

He said in spite of years of drought around him, he has never had to feed a single head of stock "and I've never taken any of that damn government feed either.

"Why, you just don't put a man out of his home. I know we have to have an army because I used to sell remounts to it.

"But this business of hollering about defense all the time just so the Army can show how much power it has got is not right."

'Mad Bomber' Plea Hearing Postponed

NEW YORK (AP)—George Metesky's plea to 47 "mad bomber" charges today was postponed until Feb. 21. This is to permit completion of tests to determine whether he is sane.

Postponement of his answer to the mass-count indictment returned by a grand jury was granted by Judge Louis J. Capozzoli at the request of defense counsel James D. C. Murray.

Metesky, smiling as always, was brought into court handcuffed and guarded by a score of detectives.

"I feel fine," he said as he exchanged greetings with a crowd of about 200.

Saturday Is Day Groundhog Is King of All Weathermen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whither the weather the rest of the winter?

Find out on Saturday, when countless other human beings will wait upon the whim of the groundhog and his shadow, in stout testimony to the durability of pleasant nonsense.

For the innocent will not be corrupted by fact, and maybe it is better thus. Who cares that the groundhog is scarcely kin to the European hedgehog that started the whole business of weather forecasting by shadows on Candlemas Day?

So the groundhog ain't really a hedgehog. So he ain't a groundhog, either, for that matter. He's listed as a marmot, which is kind of a sneaky way of saying he's a cellar-loving squirrel.

And even worse, from the practical point of view, is the fact that he's no more likely to come out on Saturday than he is on Friday or Sunday, and if he does—why, the only shadow he'll be interested in is that made by a lady groundhog.

As is so often the case, many of the groundhog's real distinctions have been obscured.

He is, for instance, a widely-distributed animal which flourishes as the year-around target for many hunters who are deeply grateful. He has been responsible for development and testing of a whole series of splendid small-calibre firearms.

In addition, he digs holes with conspicuous, mounded main entrance that horses and cows find unfailingly when they step into them and fracture their legs.

All these merits has this marmot plus one not mentioned, since his place in it is as phony as his status in weather forecasting. It's a riddle which beats the Sphinx, since it's still unanswered.

You remember: how much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck would chuck wood?

Taxpayers Take Judge's Ruling To Appeals Court

Dismissal of School Merger Issue Going To District Tribunal

The 12 taxpayers, who last May 4 filed a suit in Probate Court here asking that a Citizens Committee be formed here to study the school problems of Fayette County as a whole, late Wednesday filed notice of appeal in the district appellate court from the dismissal of the second cause of action by Judge John H. The second cause of action challenged the validity of the transfer of the Bloomingburg, Jefferson and Paint local school districts to the Miami Trace district.

Ike on Wilson and Dulles

AT TURNS thoughtful and delighted, President Eisenhower discusses two of his cabinet members—Defense Secretary Charles Wilson and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles at a wide-ranging news conference. Wilson, he said, made an unwise statement when he accused the National Guard of harboring Korean war draft dodgers. Dulles, he emphasized, is the greatest secretary of state of our time" and has never taken any action that he (Ike) hasn't approved of.

Defense Boss Faces Stiff Questioning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Defense Wilson faces stiff questioning in Congress on his charge that some of those who enlisted in the National Guard during the Korean War were dodging the draft.

President Eisenhower told a news conference Wednesday the secretary had made a "very unwise statement." But Eisenhower backed Wilson's contention that all new Guard recruits should take six months basic training.

Meantime, Wilson was invited to appear as the opening witness Monday at a House Armed Services subcommittee hearing on all reserve programs, including the Guard.

Chairman Brooks (D-La) said Wilson was invited to "give the subcommittee an elaboration on your views concerning the National Guard, the role the members of that organization have played in the past and what may be expected of them in the future."

A furor developed after Wilson told the full Armed Services Committee last Monday that "a sort of scandal . . . a draft dodging business" developed during the Korean War when youths below the minimum draft age of 18½ "could enlist in the National Guard and not be drafted to fight."

Maj. Gen. Ellard A. Walsh, president of the National Guard Assn., called this a "damn lie."

Wilson Isn't Ultracrepidarian

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP)—The Oklahoma Senate doesn't like what Secretary of Defense Wilson said about the National Guard but it refused Wednesday to call him "ultracrepidarian."

A resolution had been introduced accusing Wilson of "gross and unwarranted insult" when he said in Washington that enlistment in the Guard became a sort of draft dodging business during the Korean War.

Sen. J. R. Hall, a Miami, Okla., duced an amendment which would Democrat, unsuccessfully introduced an amendment which would have inserted "ultracrepidarian." He said it means "going beyond one's province or sphere — presumptuous."

Rancher Shuns Army Eviction

New Mexico Missile Range Land Sought

OROGRANDE, N. M. (AP)—Rugged 82-year-old John Prather today shrugged off the news that he had been ordered to vacate his home on the edge of a vast military firing range.

"A man has got a right to die at the home he spent his life building, and that's what I'm going to do," he snorted.

The military and the U. S. attorney have directed the land be vacated by March 1. The home buildings and heart of the ranch are 1½ miles inside the east border of the huge new McGregor guided missile range in south-central New Mexico.

Ten other ranchers besides Prather have been ordered off the range, but only one has gone. Prather has eight sections of good grassland inside the range and many more outside. That inside is the lush section, fed by underground water.

* * *

INFORMED OF the order, Prather, who has spent 50-odd years on his ranch, asked:

"Did that feller say March the 1st of what year?"

Told it was this year, he grinned and said, "I don't believe I'm going to make it. I've decided to finish out my first 100 years and go ahead and live another hundred to beat these people."

He said in spite of years of drought around him, he has never had to feed a single head of stock "and I've never taken any of that damn government feed either.

"Why, you just don't put a man out of his home. I know we have to have an army because I used to sell remounts to it.

"But this business of hollering about defense all the time just so the Army can show how much power it has got is not right."

Eastern Coal Mining Region Hit Hardest

11 Dead Counted; Loss Runs Into Millions; More Havoc Feared

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Emergency aid was rushed into the eastern coal mining region today where thousands of persons in four states are homeless and whole towns stricken from a devastating flood.

High waters that left at least 11 dead in two states and damages running into untold millions of dollars raced downstream today, threatening havoc on still more communities.

The flood that swept suddenly out of the mountains into southeastern Kentucky, West Virginia, southern Virginia and east Tennessee already was recorded as the region's worst in this century if not in history.

Gov. Cecil Underwood of West Virginia Wednesday night joined Kentucky's Gov. A. B. Chandler in petitioning President Eisenhower for immediate help. Eight of the dead were counted in Kentucky and three in West Virginia.

In Kentucky, Prestonsburg, Paintsville and Beattyville shored up barriers against the onrushing Kentucky River even as mud-covered cities in the flood's wake called for water purifiers and typhoid vaccine.

* * *

AT LEAST A thousand persons fled their homes at Prestonsburg where Wednesday night a fire broke out, destroying three buildings. All firemen could do was let it burn itself out and prevent it from spreading.

The Army at Ft. Knox sent soldiers, medical corps men and supplies to stricken areas with the help of the National Guard, Red Cross and Civil Defense.

Army helicopters dropped through overcast skies to take typhoid serum, medicine, blankets and foods to isolated communities.

Col. R. E. Smyser Jr., Ohio River Division chief engineer, said the worst of the flood in Kentucky is over "if we don't get any more rain."

Col. Smyser said that the big job now is cleaning up, "and it will be terrific." He said the Salvation Army, Red Cross and local agencies are doing a mag-

'Mad Bomber' Plea Hearing Postponed

NEW YORK (AP) - George Metesky's plea to 47 "mad bomber" charges today was postponed until Feb. 21. This is to permit completion of tests to determine whether he is sane.

Postponement of his answer to the mass-count indictment returned by a grand jury was granted by Judge Louis J. Capozzoli at the request of defense counsel James D. C. Murray.

Metesky, smiling as always, was brought into court handcuffed and guarded by a score of detectives.

"I feel fine," he said as he exchanged greetings with a crowd of about 200.

Possibility Seen for Special Class This Fall

BPW Group Seeks To Contact Parents of Retarded Children

An all-out effort to make direct contacts with parents of retarded children marks a new phase in continuing plans for the establishment of community classes for special education here.

Mrs. June Ramey, chairman of the Business and Professional Women's Club health and safety committee, said Thursday that additional study has been given the project since a meeting held here Nov. 27 and that the next logical step is to find out how many children may be eligible for enrollment.

Mrs. Ramey asks that parents of retarded children, residents of either the city or county, contact her as soon as possible.

She may be reached at 2593 between the hours of 8 a. m. and 5 p. m., and at 2-3141 after 5 p. m.

The BPW committee has contacted W. W. Purdy, superintendent of the Urbana city schools, who has explained the organization of two special classes there which operate under an official constitution and bylaws.

* * *

DETAILS of the Urbana plan will be outlined at a meeting of parents which will be called as soon as preliminary data, including numbers and ages of eligible children, can be prepared.

Mrs. Ramey pointed out that organization of a class here may be completed by September, depending on interest shown in the proposal and availability of a suitable teacher.

Gov. C. William O'Neill, at a state BPW meeting in Columbus last Saturday, made it plain that help in establishment of classes for retarded children, is a part of his administrative - legislative program. He emphasized his interest in a message to the General Assembly Monday.

* * *

PROCEDURES for setting up special classes here were outlined by Dr. Roderick N. Purcell, director of special education for the Ohio Division of Mental Hygiene at a meeting here two months ago.

Dr. Purcell pointed out that Ohio's advanced program includes more than 170 special classes in 50 counties. About 115 of these classes receive state aid.

The speaker added that while eligibility is limited under present requirements, rules probably will become more flexible as additional state funds are available.

In order to be eligible for state aid, classes must have between eight and 12 children, usually with an age range of not more than five years.

* * *

THE CHILDREN must be unacceptable in public schools, must have a mental age of about 3 and an intelligence quotient of 50 or below. They must have acceptable home training.

Eligible children should be at least 6 years old and not more than 21.

Citing the excellent opportunities for retarded children in such classes, Dr. Purcell said that Fayette County has at least one potential class and possibly more.

More Pay Talked For Skilled GIs

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Defense Department is considering proposals that would enable skilled and dedicated military people to be paid more for ability, regardless of length of service.

Present premium pay for length of service would be dropped, but provisions would be included to prevent a pay cut for anyone now in service.

The proposals were made by a committee appointed by Secretary of Defense Wilson to devise additional ways to encourage good men to join and stay in uniform.

New Move Launched To Call Ohio Legislature Each Year

COLUMBUS (AP)—A new move to switch the Ohio Legislature to annual sessions has bobbed up.

Two years ago, the Ohio House approved a similar amendment to the state constitution, but it died in the Senate.

The new bid for annual sessions was made in the Senate Wednesday by Sen. J. E. Simpson (R-Hardin). The constitution now provides for sessions of the General Assembly every two years in the odd-numbered years.

House leaders say they will let the Senate fight the battle of the annual sessions this year. If the Senate should unexpectedly approve the constitutional change, House leaders said, the House probably would follow suit. Final decision would be up to the voters.

School children probably would form the biggest bloc of opposition to aproposal by Sen. Charles A. Mosher (R-Lorain), chairman of the Senate Education Committee.

He introduced a bill which requires a school to be open for classes 176 days a year in order to qualify for state subsidies. Present law requires 180 days, but includes a number of holidays in that total.

* * *

MOSHER'S BILL would require 176 days of actual instruction.

Mosher is the sponsor also of a bill to give the state board of education authority to initiate school district reorganizations, including creation of new districts and transfer of territory from one district to another. The board's actions would be subject to 55 per cent approval of the voters in the affected areas.

The proposal would permit creation of districts which cross county lines.

The backlog of bills in the two houses reached 258 with the introduction of 38 more Wednesday.

Another batch probably will be introduced today before the lawmakers end their week's session. Wednesday's offerings included measures to:

Increase teacher-training scholarships from two to four years with selections based on oral or written examinations.

Eliminate a provision in the group life insurance law which prohibits the state and other political subdivision from paying employes' premiums.

Authorize school boards to buy liability insurance against on-the-job acts of employes.

Establish a meditation and prayer room in the Capitol building.

Give witnesses before government administrative agencies the right to use a lawyer.

Increase cost of birth certificates from 50 cents to not more than $1.50.

Give the state board of tax appeals authority to set up uniform standards for tax appraisals.

Saturday Is Day Groundhog Is King of All Weathermen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Whither the weather the rest of the winter?

Find out on Saturday, when countless other human beings will wait upon the whim of the groundhog and his shadow, in stout testimony to the durability of pleasant nonsense.

For the innocent will not be corrupted by fact, and maybe it is better thus. Who cares that the groundhog is scarcely kin to the European hedgehog that started the whole business of weather forecasting by shadows on Candlemas Day?

So the groundhog ain't really a hedgehog. So he ain't a groundhog, either, for that matter. He's listed as a marmot, which is kind of a sneaky way of saying he's a cellar-loving squirrel.

And even worse, from the practical point of view, is the fact that he's no more likely to come out on Saturday than he is on Friday or Sunday, and if he does—why, the only shadow he'll be interested in is that made by a lady groundhog.

As is so often the case, many of the groundhog's real distinctions have been obscured.

He is, for instance, a widely-distributed animal which flourishes as the year-around target for many hunters who are deeply grateful. He has been responsible for development and testing of a whole series of splendid small-calibre firearms.

In addition, he digs holes with conspicuous, mounded main entrance that horses and cows find unfailingly when they step into them and fracture their legs.

All these merits has this marmot plus one not mentioned, since his place in it is as phony as his status in weather forecasting. It's a riddle which beats the Sphinx, since it's still unanswered.

You remember: how much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck would chuck wood?

U. S. Corporate Profits Show Belated Bounce

Last Quarter of '56 Reveals 6.5 Pct. Hike Over Previous Year

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — The bounce back in profits after the summer slump is giving a healthier glow today to many corporate reports.

The first 90 corporations to published their net incomes after taxes for the fourth quarter of 1956 show a combined gain of 6.5 per cent over the October, November and December period of 1955. Two out of three increased earnings over a year ago. And only three operated at a loss.

For many of the firms the fourth quarter prosperity offset a third quarter decline and allowed them to report a net gain for the entire year.

The percentage of increase over the previous year, however, usually was considerably smaller than 1955's jumped over 1954.

And the average 1956 fourth quarter spread over the similar 1955 period was noticeably smaller than the percentage of increase chalked up in the first three months of last year.

The summer slump in profits mostly hit firms affected directly or indirectly by the steel strike and the production cuts in the auto and farm machinery industries.

The bounce back in the final three months of the year was most apparent in these same categories.

For business as a whole there is still evident the squeeze on profits traced to rising costs of labor and materials, and to little if any gain in productivity — the amount of goods produced per man hour of labor.

Some companies with rising sales volume and higher prices for their own products have been able to offset the increased costs and keep their profit charts still pointed toward the ceiling. But many others have seen the curve level off if not droop toward the floor.

The first 90 corporations to report had combined net incomes of $510,490,432, which was 6.5 per cent higher than the $478,921,804 the same 90 reported for the final months of 1955.

Utilities, as a class, showed better gains than the average. Best gains among the industrials are reported by the booming steel and oil industries. Banks, which are not included in the 90, report considerably better gains than the average for the 90.

More Sentences Piled on Thugs

RAVENNA (AP)—Three men were sentenced Wednesday to 10 to 25 years in prison for a $4,000 armed robbery of a supermarket in Kent last November.

Robert Myers, 24, Wooster, and John Stanton, 24, Orrville, were sentenced to Mansfield Reformatory. Arthur Steen, 37, Wooster, was sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary.

Myers and Stanton were sentenced to additional terms of one to 15 years for an attempted holdup at a supermarket here.

All three were sentenced last week in Findlay to one to 15 years for an attempted holdup there.

His Cumberland Basin tour extended from Knoxville to Barbourville and was made by auto.

Col. Smyser said that the flash floods draining from the three basin areas—the Cumberland, Kentucky and Big Sandy rivers—will not endanger Ohio River cities.

At Harlan, Ky., he said there has been $1 million worth of damage. Approximately 1,000 persons were made homeless.

At Barbourville, Ky., damage was estimated at $750,000, with approximately 500 homeless.

COL. SMYSER said work had just begun this month on a levy to protect Barbourville. It had been delayed 14 months because of objections by land owners.

"We could have had it built by now," Col. Smyser said, "if we had been able to go ahead."

Hazard, Ky., a coal mining center, today is a city of slime, death and grimness. Receding waters revealed five deaths and a city left devastated by the worst flood since 1927.

Swirling waters, ranging in depth from one foot to more than 10, for 18 hours unleashed their fury on the downtown section of the mountain community of 7,000.

During those hours, a fire cost the lives of an elderly couple who had taken refuge in another home. About 65 other persons who had been given shelter there escaped. Drownings took three lives.

Israel, Egypt Pressed for OK on Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States and Canada hopefully pressed Israel and Egypt today to accept a two-phase plan to end the standoff in the Sinai Desert.

The proposal was slated to take the form of twin resolutions. They would call for:

1. Israel's immediate withdrawal of all her forces from the Aqaba Coast and the Gaza Strip, territories she occupies outside the 1949 armistice line.

2. Posting of U. N. Emergency Force units on both sides of the Israeli-Egyptian armistice line, including the Gaza Strip, and along Egypt's Aqaba Coast until peace is stabilized.

Neither Israel nor Egypt gave indication they would agree.

Instead, a Cairo newspaper backed by President Nasser's government said Egypt "will never consent to occupation of her territory by a single state, by a group of states or even by the United Nations itself." Egypt has demanded that Israel withdraw unconditionally from the two disputed areas.

Israel has agreed to pull out of the Aqaba area only if she has concrete assurances Egypt will not again blockade Israeli shipping through the waterway.

Paddison told police he was en route from Washington, D. C., to the Bendix Corp. guided missile plant in South Bend, Ind. Police said he referred to the contents of the missing case as "dynamite," but did not elaborate.

ARMY REVEALS PLANS FOR HUGE SOLAR FURNACE

RELEASED IN WASHINGTON, this artist's conception shows the solar furnace to be constructed at Natick, Mass., by the U. S. Army Research and Development control. It will be capable of creating temperatures comparable to those in the explosion of an A-bomb, and consists of a series of concentrating mirrors, 120 feet in length and 40 feet in height. The mirrors will focus the sun's rays, like a magnifying glass, on target areas to test equipment in heat equivalent to that of a nuclear explosion. (Defense Dept. Photo—International)

Arabian Prince Slated for Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors were to examine 3½-year-old Prince Mashhur today to find out what is causing the partial paralysis that has afflicted the young Saudi Arabian since birth.

On President Eisenhower's instructions, the boy was to be examined at Walter Reed Army Hospital. He arrived Wednesday with his father, King Saud, who is on a state visit as Eisenhower's guest.

Partial paralysis affects the prince's right hand and right leg.

King Saud's press secretary said many doctors in Saudi Arabia had examined the prince. The King brought the boy along in hopes American doctors could help.

U. S. Corporate Profits Show Belated Bounce

For many of the firms the fourth quarter prosperity offset a third quarter decline and allowed them to report a net gain for the entire year.

The percentage of increase over the previous year, however, usually was considerably smaller than 1955's jumped over 1954.

And the average 1956 fourth quarter spread over the similar 1955 period was noticeably smaller than the percentage of increase chalked up in the first three months of last year.

The summer slump in profits mostly hit firms affected directly or indirectly by the steel strike and the production cuts in the auto and farm machinery industries.

The bounce back in the final three months of the year was most apparent in these same categories.

For business as a whole there is still evident the squeeze on profits traced to rising costs of labor and materials, and to little if any gain in productivity — the amount of goods produced per man hour of labor.

Some companies with rising sales volume and higher prices for their own products have been able to offset the increased costs and keep their profit charts still pointed toward the ceiling. But many others have seen the curve level off if not droop toward the floor.

The first 90 corporations to report had combined net incomes of $510,490,432, which was 6.5 per cent higher than the $478,921,804 the same 90 reported for the final months of 1955.

Utilities, as a class, showed better gains than the average. Best gains among the industrials are reported by the booming steel and oil industries. Banks, which are not included in the 90, report considerably better gains than the average for the 90.

More Sentences Piled on Thugs

RAVENNA (AP)—Three men were sentenced Wednesday to 10 to 25 years in prison for a $4,000 armed robbery of a supermarket in Kent last November.

Robert Myers, 24, Wooster, and John Stanton, 24, Orrville, were sentenced to Mansfield Reformatory. Arthur Steen, 37, Wooster, was sentenced to Ohio Penitentiary.

Myers and Stanton were sentenced to additional terms of one to 15 years for an attempted holdup at a supermarket here.

All three were sentenced last week in Findlay to one to 15 years for an attempted holdup there.

nificent job in caring for refugees.

His Cumberland Basin tour extended from Knoxville to Barbourville and was made by auto.

Col. Smyser said that the flash floods draining from the three basin areas—the Cumberland, Kentucky and Big Sandy rivers—will not endanger Ohio River cities.

At Harlan, Ky., he said there has been $1 million worth of damage. Approximately 1,000 persons were made homeless.

At Barbourville, Ky., damage was estimated at $750,000, with approximately 500 homeless.

* * *

COL. SMYSER said work had just begun this month on a levy to protect Barbourville. It had been delayed 14 months because of objections by land owners.

"We could have had it built by now," Col. Smyser said, "if we had been able to go ahead."

Hazard, Ky., a coal mining center, today is a city of slime, death and grimness. Receding waters revealed five deaths and a city left devastated by the worst flood since 1927.

Swirling waters, ranging in depth from one foot to more than 10, for 18 hours unleashed their fury on the downtown section of the mountain community of 7,000.

During those hours, a fire cost the lives of an elderly couple who had taken refuge in another home. About 65 other persons who had been given shelter there escaped. Drownings took three lives.

More Coal Seen

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio's 1956 coal production should rise to between 39 and 40 million tons, Hugh D. Wait, acting director of the state industrial relations department, said today.

Israel, Egypt Pressed for OK on Plan

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States and Canada hopefully pressed Israel and Egypt today to accept a two-phase plan to end the standoff in the Sinai Desert.

The proposal was slated to take the form of twin resolutions. They would call for:

1. Israel's immediate withdrawal of all her forces from the Aqaba Coast and the Gaza Strip, territories she occupies outside the 1949 armistice line

2. Posting of U. N. Emergency Force units on both sides of the Israeli-Egyptian armistice line, including the Gaza Strip, and along Egypt's Aqaba Coast until peace is stabilized.

Neither Israel nor Egypt gave indication they would agree.

Instead, a Cairo newspaper backed by President Nasser's government said Egypt "will never consent to occupation of her territory by a single state, by a group of states or even by the United Nations itself." Egypt has demanded that Israel withdraw unconditionally from the two disputed areas.

Israel has agreed to pull out of the Aqaba area only if she has concrete assurances Egypt will not again blockade Israeli shipping through the waterway.

Physicist Loses Valued Briefcase

CHICAGO (AP) — The FBI and police today investigated the disappearance of a briefcase owned by a physicist and which he said contained government secrets.

Fletcher C. Paddison of Bethesda, Md., told police the briefcase vanished Wednesday while he was making a telephone call from an Illinois Central Railroad station

Paddison told police he was en route from Washington, D. C., to the Bendix Corp. guided missile plant in South Bend, Ind. Police said he referred to the contents of the missing case as "dynamite," but did not elaborate.

Nationalist Planes Dropping Leaflets

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Chinese Nationalist air force headquarters said planes ranged over 12 Chinese mainland provinces today, a new high in the anti-Communist propaganda campaign. They dropped leaflets containing Chinese lunar new year greetings to the people and an illustrated account of the Hungarian rebellion.

The lunar new year is celebrated by Chinese over the world and is a time to placate the gods and settle debts.

The year of the monkey ended and the year of the rooster began. The lunar years go in cycles of 12 and are named for animals.

The suits were filed in territorial Montana in 1844, 1888 and 1889.

ARMY REVEALS PLANS FOR HUGE SOLAR FURNACE

RELEASED IN WASHINGTON, this artist's conception shows the solar furnace to be constructed at Natick, Mass., by the U. S. Army Research and Development control. It will be capable of creating temperatures comparable to those in the explosion of an A-bomb, and consists of a series of concentrating mirrors, 120 feet in length and 40 feet in height. The mirrors will focus the sun's rays, like a magnifying glass, on target areas to test equipment in heat equivalent to that of a nuclear explosion. (Defense Dept. Photo—International)

Arabian Prince Slated for Tests

WASHINGTON (AP) — Army doctors were to examine 3½-year-old Prince Mashhur today to find out what is causing the partial paralysis that has afflicted the young Saudi Arabian since birth.

On President Eisenhower's instructions, the boy was to be examined at Walter Reed Army Hospital. He arrived Wednesday with his father, King Saud, who is on a state visit as Eisenhower's guest.

Partial paralysis affects the prince's right hand and right leg.

King Saud's press secretary said many doctors in Saudi Arabia had examined the prince. The King brought the boy along in hopes American doctors could help.

Although requested, the United States Senate refused to approve annexation of the Dominican Republic in 1868 - 70 after Spain had relinquished sovereignty.

Too Many "Handouts" and Too Much Inflation

Right here in Fayette County we should be just as much concerned with the inflationary movement as anywhere else in this country.

Perhaps we are more conservative in localities like our own, and as yet we may not feel the pinch as much as other communities which are spending far more than their income. However it will be easy for us to catch this "inflation fever" and we better had be on our guard.

It is being pointed out by reputable financial experts that governments in this country of ours, federal, state and local are spending $110 billions a year. This is the equivalent of about one third of all the money earned by all people and businesses in the United States, and the spending trend is strongly upward.

There are many "promoters" today who see nothing but prosperity in this gigantic spending effort, especially if we think we are somehow getting a "government handout" which we think lowers our own local bills. That is faulty thinking. We learned in the last "depression" that over-indulgence of our spending sprees caught up with a lot of us with crashing effect.

Under these conditions, why isn't there more determined demand that costs be cut where-ever possible, at all levels of government from courthouse to the national capital?

Just about everyone, and certainly nearly every major group, is getting something from government. There are specific examples of how labor, agriculture and business are all getting government aids of some kind.

Some of these aids, no doubt, are desirable and necessary. But others — including very costly ones — are not only wasteful and needless but, more important, undermine the initiative, the independence, and the sense of responsibility of those receiving them. They are examples of government doing for people what people can and should do for themselves —and that is what ultimately destroys political freedom in any country, and reduces the individual to the status of a statistic.

We will have cheaper government when all the groups — agriculture, business, labor — are willing to demand cuts which affect them and not just the other fellow. On the practical side, it is time that more of us realized that government can only spend what it first takes from us — and that a lot of the money disappears in the costs and wastes that go along with political administration of our affairs.

It seems to be an inexorable law of economics that every time wages rise out of due proportion, the cost of production also rises and quickly a rise in prices follows. Who pays these prices, directly or indirectly?

All this process, whether we call it inflation or what - not, harms not only the unfortunate retired people who have to live entirely on fixed incomes derived from their savings or investments or insurance, but also those who, while still earning, try to set aside a financial "nest-egg" only to find later that inflation has caused that egg to be hatched into a very puny chick insofar as what its money will buy.

"Pssssst! Remember me?"

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any future criticism of Secretary of State Dulles for his handling of foreign affairs must include President Eisenhower. Eisenhower has taken equal responsibility for whatever Dulles has done.

That's covering a lot of ground.

Nevertheless, in the midst of the worst attack on Dulles in his four years in office, Eisenhower has not only put his arm around him but has opened his personal umbrella over him.

Eisenhower was practically forced into it.

In the past few weeks, some Senate Democrats have opened up on Dulles almost violently, even to the point of suggesting he quit. As members of an opposition political party they had been almost strangely mild in their criticism for four years.

But American Allies abroad have been blasting Dulles for his handling of problems in the Middle East. Eisenhower had three choices: get rid of Dulles, back him up, or stay silent.

But if he kept quiet, friends and foes at home and abroad could interpret it as a form of Presidential criticism or, worse for American foreign policy, weakness in the White House. Either way this country's foreign relations would suffer.

Eisenhower apparently was bothered by things being said about Dulles — and through Dulles, about the administration's handling of foreign affairs — for he went out of his way at a luncheon with senators Tuesday to praise his secretary.

He was given his chance to elaborate at his news conference Wednesday when a reporter reminded the President he had once called Dulles the best secretary in our time and asked him if he still felt the same way.

Eisenhower said he stood on that. But he then went further, saying Dulles has a "wisdom and experience and knowledge (in foreign affairs) that I think is possessed by no man — no other man in the world."

And he took one more step by telling the world indirectly that any criticism of Dulles should include Eisenhower, for he said:

"Secretary Dulles, to the best of my knowledge and belief — and I keep, I assure you, very close touch — has never taken any action which I have not in advance approved."

The word "action" in this sense would, it seems, have to include what has often appeared like a lack of action and a change in tactics.

For example. Dulles had years to prepare a plan, along with his country's British and French allies, to prevent the Communists from taking over Indochina.

But when the collapse of Indochina was imminent, Dulles had no plan and at that last moment went racing off to Europe to see if he could get joint action from the allies.

When Dulles dawdled on giving Egypt arms until President Nasser bought them from Russia, that, too, was an action.

It was also an action when Dulles not only refused Nasses money for the Aswan Dam but also unnecessarily belittled the ability of Egypt to pay its bills. Nasser within a week after that seized the Suez Canal and the Middle East was in turmoil.

It was also an action when, trying to find a way out of the canal seizure, Dulles talked in terms of a strong plan — called the users association — before setting out for Britain. Onie there, he toned down his plan until it was meaningless. And his performance there infuriated Britain and France.

The Democrats who have refrained from criticism of Eisenhower may now feel free, as they pursue their criticism of Dulles, to start attacking the President.

Advances in Medicine Made by Scientists

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Scientists, pharmacists, even electrical engineers are contributing to advances in the medical field.

This month's report deals with accomplishments of all three, with a new type of aspirin, a new epileptic drug and a new type of telephone.

The new pharmaceutical development permits victims of arthritis and other conditions to take large and effective doses of aspirin without at times suffering gastric upset.

Effective Therapy

We have long recognized aspirin as effective therapy in rheumatic diseases, but the stomach distress it sometimes causes in large doses has limited its use among many patients.

Application of a new coating—Duentric—to aspirin now enables the tablets to pass intact through the stomach, yet disintegrate quickly in the small intestine. This allows the medicine to be absorbed into the blood stream without touching the sensitive stomach lining.

Freedom From Seizures

An anticonvulsant drug, Phelantin, is reported to have given complete freedom from seizures to more than half of a group of 95 epileptic patients in a clinical test in Boston, Massachusetts.

Forty-eight of the patients given the drug reportedly received total relief.

Many of those who reported the drug only partially effective said they still felt better, more alert and slept more restfully while taking Phelantin.

Special Phone

The new type telephone will benefit those who are hard of hearing. By using transistors instead of bulkier vacuum tubes to provide amplification, the Automatic Electric Company has developed a special phone about the same size and weight as an ordinary instrument.

In fact, the transistized amplification assembly fits right into the housing of a conventional telephone. A small control knob at the back of the set permits the user to adjust the volume to his needs.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

B. K.: I am 73. I seem to lose my balance frequently when I stand up after having been seated for a while. Is this a sign of something serious?

Answer: Staggering or loss of balance may be due to a number of conditions such as disturbance in the inner ear or a nervous system disorder. Sometimes conditions affecting the blood may cause staggering.

'Baby Doll' Has Her Troubles

By Saul Pett
(Substituting For Hal Boyle)

NEW YORK (AP)—Carroll Baker, star of "Baby Doll," had just come in from shopping.

She unloaded two huge bags of groceries on the kitchen table, cast a tired glance over the scattered evidences of baby formula, sighed, brushed back a loose hair, moved into the living room, collapsed in a chair and reached for a cigaret when the baby cried.

"Please excuse me," she said, "Blanche needs burping."

It seemed an appropriate time to discuss the glamorous life of a new movie queen, 1957 model.

"I'm sorry," said the brown-haired, blue-eyed actress, returning to the living room. "It's the baby nurse's day off. Maid? I have one in for only eight hours a week. But now, maybe we can talk. That is if the phone doesn't ring.

"It's been ringing like mad since the premiere and all the fuss. I need a secretary but can't afford one. People call all the time, suggesting this, asking that, wondering if I'd be interested in many things. Most of the time I don't know what they're talking about or I don't know who to be nice to. So I just pretend I'm Miss Baker's secretary and promise to call back. Then I talk it over with my agent."

No butlers, no swimming pools, no hanging gardens or garages crammed with long cars?

"No, just this apartment which we're only beginning to be able to pay for. I'm afraid most people have the wrong idea of what it's like to become a movie star these days. The money I now make impresses all my relatives. It is, of course, staggering compared to the days just two or three years ago when Jack (Jack Garfein, husband and stage director) and I were living on macaroni and cheese.

"But the money quickly becomes too little. For example, I'm going to the Coast this spring for another picture. We'll have to have a house, nurse, cook and car to get to the studio. I don't know how we'll pay for it."

Miss Baker has learned to live with the controversy surrounding her movie. But she has not yet learned to live with public curiosity.

"People stare at you and they're so bold about it. The other night we went to an art exhibit and strangers were sticking their faces in mine, just staring or overhearing our conversation. Even while I was hanging on my husband's arm, one man—I'll never seen him before—went sailing by with the greeting, 'Hi, Baby Doll.'"

Understanding the American Way

By George Sokolsky

Obviously the Secretary of the Treasury is not quarrelling with the President.

Quite apart from the personal relations between George Humphrey and Dwight D. Eisenhower, which are close and cordial, a member of the President's Cabinet does not have a public row with the President and remain in the Cabinet. That is not customary even among friends.

Therefore this is something else, namely, that the technical economists on the White House staff are followers of John Maynard Keynes and believe in deficit financing which is a mirage that gives the impression of prosperity without its substance, and George Humphrey, unusually successful businessman, does not believe in deficit financing. His tart phrase on the subject is: "I don't think you can spend yourself rich."

President Eisenhower, instead of keeping this quarrel over a fundamental principle of economics and life, inside the White House, has thrown it into the open for public discussion. In fact he has thrown it into the lap of Congress and has told Congress to cut his huge, out-of-line budget, if it can.

Congress wonders why the cutting was not done before the budget was sent to it. The difficulty that Congress faces is that since Roosevelt it has become accustomed to the President almost dictating the budget whereas the function of appropriations is constitutionally reserved to the Congress and should originate in the House of Representatives.

What portends is that the White House, the Treasury and the Congress seem to give the impression that they are preparing for a recession; that President Eisenhower does not believe it will occur in this fiscal year and that he is ready for it; that Secretary of the Treasury George Humphrey, believes that unless correct policies are pursued, such a recession could dump itself into a depression that "will curl your hair," and that Congress is scared that it might come before the 1958 election and that the voters will follow their time-honored custom of kicking the rascals out.

The old school - boy adage is that whatever goes up must come down and even in the physics of Einstein and the atomic age, this rule holds. So obviously, when government expenditures are too high and the national debt is too high and taxes are too high and prices are too high, something must come down or there will be an explosion.

So far as John Q. Public, to use an ancient and time-worn phrase, is concerned, taxes and prices can come down right now and he would like to put something away each week despite all the fringe securities that have been guaranteed to him.

And he is not as afraid of inflation as the politician is because he has lived with inflation for several years and it does not frighten him; it only makes him pay more dollars for less groceries in the super-market. If he can get more groceries for less money, he will be pleased.

Also he is getting very tired of taking care of the Indians and the Ceylonese and the Saudi Arabians and he would hand world leadership over to the British or whoever wants it and can afford to pay for it.

In fact, most Americans are tired of all these queer people who want aid but will only take it unconditioanlly, with no strings attached, as though they were doing us a great favor by taking our money.

Perhaps that is why the Mad Bomber became such a tremendous news sensation. He provided an escape from the wordiness of political pronouncements and a relief from the dry rot which has set in among those who are supposed to have ideals.

The President's second inaugural, while a noble document that could bring comfort to the Moroccans and Algerians, did not stir the American soul which would have cheered with unmistakable furor, a 10 per cent income tax cut across the board.

George Humphrey has always been something of a philosophic economist among businessmen and is nobody's goose who will follow a line worked out in committee.

He has stood alone on other occasions and made a considerable fortune for himself and built strong companies when less adventuresome men were wailing that a depression had hit the land.

Too Many "Handouts" and Too Much Inflation

Right here in Fayette County we should be just as much concerned with the inflationary movement as anywhere else in this country.

Perhaps we are more conservative in localities like our own, and as yet we may not feel the pinch as much as other communities which are spending far more than their income. However it will be easy for us to catch this "inflation fever" and we better had be on our guard.

It is being pointed out by reputable financial experts that governments in this country of ours, federal, state and local are spending $110 billions a year. This is the equivalent of about one third of all the money earned by all people and businesses in the United States, and the spending trend is strongly upward.

There are many "promoters" today who see nothing but prosperity in this gigantic spending effort, especially if we think we are somehow getting a "government handout" which we think lowers our own local bills. That is faulty thinking. We learned in the last "depression" that over-indulgence of our spending sprees caught up with a lot of us with crashing effect.

Under these conditions, why isn't there more determined demand that costs be cut where-ever possible, at all levels of government from courthouse to the national capital?

Just about everyone, and certainly nearly every major group, is getting something from government. There are specific examples of how labor, agriculture and business are all getting government aids of some kind.

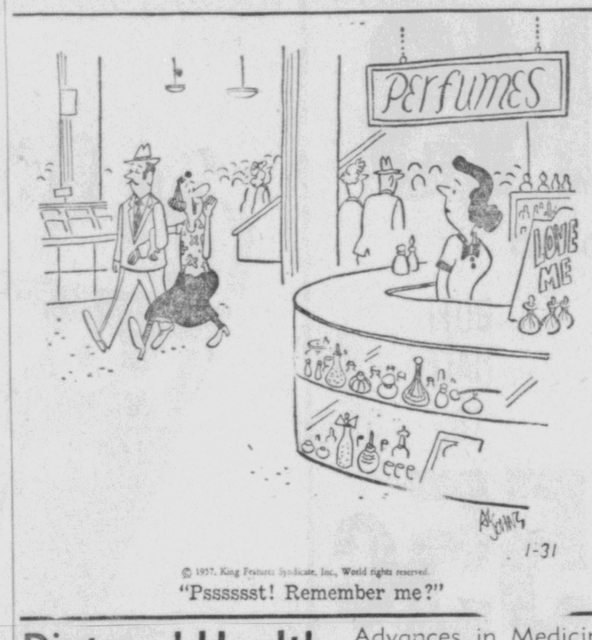

Some of these aids, no doubt, are desirable and necessary. But others — including very costly ones — are not only wasteful and needless but, more important, undermine the initiative, the independence, and the sense of responsibility of those receiving them. They are examples of government doing for people what people can and should do for themselves —and that is what ultimately destroys political freedom in any country, and reduces the individual to the status of a statistic.

We will have cheaper government when all the groups — agriculture, business, labor — are willing to demand cuts which affect them and not just the other fellow. On the practical side, it is time that more of us realized that government can only spend what it first takes from us — and that a lot of the money disappears in the costs and wastes that go along with political administration of our affairs.

It seems to be an inexorable law of economics that every time wages rise out of due proportion, the cost of production also rises and quickly a rise in prices follows. Who pays these prices, directly or indirectly?

All this process, whether we call it inflation or what - not, harms not only the unfortunate retired people who have to live entirely on fixed incomes derived from their savings or investments or insurance, but also those who, while still earning, try to set aside a financial "nest-egg" only to find later that inflation has caused that egg to be hatched into a very puny chick insofar as what its money will buy.

Diet and Health

Advances in Medicine Made by Scientists

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

Scientists, pharmacists, even electrical engineers are contributing to advances in the medical field.

This month's report deals with accomplishments of all three, with a new type of aspirin, a new epileptic drug and a new type of telephone.

The new pharmaceutical development permits victims of arthritis and other conditions to take large and effective doses of aspirin without at times suffering gastric upset.

Effective Therapy

We have long recognized aspirin as effective therapy in rheumatic diseases, but the stomach distress it sometimes causes in large doses has limited its use among many patients.

Application of a new coating—Duentric—to aspirin now enables the tablets to pass intact through the stomach, yet disintegrate quickly in the small intestine. This allows the medicine to be absorbed into the blood stream without touching the sensitive stomach lining.

Freedom From Seizures

An anticonvulsant drug, Phelantin, is reported to have given complete freedom from seizures to more than half of a group of 95 epileptic patients in a clinical test in Boston, Massachusetts.

Forty-eight of the patients given the drug reportedly received total relief.

Many of those who reported the drug only partially effective said they still felt better, more alert and slept more restfully while taking Phelantin.

Special Phone

The new type telephone will benefit those who are hard of hearing. By using transistors instead of bulkier vacuum tubes to provide amplification, the Automatic Electric Company has developed a special phone about the same size and weight as an ordinary instrument.

In fact, the transistized amplification assembly fits right into the housing of a conventional telephone. A small control knob at the back of the set permits the user to adjust the volume to his needs.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

Answer: Staggering or loss of balance may be due to a number of conditions such as disturbance in the inner ear or a nervous system disorder. Sometimes conditions affecting the blood may cause staggering.

The Nation Today

James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP) — Any future criticism of Secretary of State Dulles for his handling of foreign affairs must include President Eisenhower. Eisenhower has taken equal responsibility for whatever Dulles has done.

That's covering a lot of ground. Nevertheless, in the midst of the worst attack on Dulles in his four years in office, Eisenhower has not only put his arm around him but has opened his personal umbrella over him.

Eisenhower was practically forced into it.

In the past few weeks, some Senate Democrats have opened up on Dulles almost violently, even to the point of suggesting he quit. As members of an opposition political party they had been almost strangely mild in their criticism for four years.

But American Allies abroad have been blasting Dulles for his handling of problems in the Middle East. Eisenhower had three choices: get rid of Dulles, back him up, or stay silent.

But if he kept quiet, friends and foes at home and abroad could interpret it as a form of Presidential criticism or, worse for American foreign policy, weakness in the White House. Either way this country's foreign relations would suffer.

Eisenhower apparently was bothered by things being said about Dulles — and through Dulles, about the administration's handling of foreign affairs — for he went out of his way at a luncheon with senators Tuesday to praise his secretary.

He was given his chance to elaborate at his news conference Wednesday when a reporter reminded the President he had once called Dulles the best secretary in our time and asked him if he still felt the same way.

Eisenhower said he stood on that. But he then went further, saying Dulles has a "wisdom and experience and knowledge (in foreign affairs) that I think is possessed by no man — no other man in the world."

And he took one more step by telling the world indirectly that any criticism of Dulles should include Eisenhower, for he said:

"Secretary Dulles, to the best of my knowledge and belief — and I keep, I assure you, very close touch — has never taken any action which I have not in advance approved."

The word "action" in this sense would, it seems, have to include what has often appeared like a lack of action and a change in tactics.

For example. Dulles had years to prepare a plan, along with this country's British and French allies, to prevent the Communists from taking over Indochina.

But when the collapse of Indochina was imminent, Dulles had no plan and at that last moment went racing off to Europe to see if he could get joint action from the allies.

When Dulles dawdled on giving Egypt arms until President Nasser bought them from Russia, that, too, was an action.

It was also an action when Dulles not only refused Nasses money for the Aswan Dam but also unnecessarily belittled the ability of Egypt to pay its bills. Nasser within a week after that seized the Suez Canal and the Middle East was in turmoil.

It was also an action when, trying to find a way out of the canal seizure, Dulles talked in terms of a strong plan — called the users association — before setting out for Britain. Onie there, he toned down his plan until it was meaningless. And his performance there infuriated Britain and France.

The Democrats who have refrained from criticism of Eisenhower may now feel free, as they pursue their criticism of Dulles, to start attacking the President.

Seaman's Sentence Shaved by Judge

COLUMBUS (AP)—Federal Judge Mell G. Underwood has reduced Greek seaman from six months to the sentence of a 21-year-old Greek seaman from six months to 60 days.

The seaman, Nicolaos Papaplakas,, was convicted of overstaying his landing permit after leaving his ship in Philadelphia.

Judge Underwood also took under advisement a plea for reduction of sentence for Dr. James K. Nealon, 53, of Newark, Ohio.

Dr. Nealon, an urologist, was sentenced to 15 months in jail on charges of evading nearly $14,000 in federal income taxes.

Grugel led a postal inspector to the basement of his home, where he had hidden 350 pieces of mail that should have been delivered early this month. Assistant U. S. Attorney George W. Morrison said none of the letters had been opened and nothing was stolen.

Carrara Is Still Marble Capital of World Despite Centuries of Quarrying Operations

The majestic marble mountains of Carrara gleam beneath the Italian sun.

By OMER ANDERSON
(Central Press Association)

CARRARA, Italy — Michael-angelo came to Carrara to select marble for his sculptures. Today, churchmen from the U. S. make the pilgrimage to the "marble mountains" to order religious sculptures for their churches back home.

Since Michaelangelo's time Carrara has been synonymous with marble. On a mountain at Carrara the Italian master inscribed his name as a tribute to its marble.

However, Michaelangelo didn't discover Carrara's marble; he merely popularized it. The ancient Romans, long before the Italian jack-of-all-arts, had beaten a path to the hamlet at the foot of the magic mountains.

For the splendor of ancient Rome was reflected in its public buildings and monuments carved from Carrara marble — marble which Roman slaves toiled to quarry and transport to the Eternal City.

* * *

PRECIOUS LITTLE Carrara marble goes to Rome these days. Most of it is destined for the United States, Canada and South America.

In one marble sculptory six master sculptors have labored for months on a 30-foot long, 8-foot high scene from the Last Supper. Destination: a Canadian cemetery.

A church in Philadelphia has ordered a similarly massive sculpture of the Virgin Mary, the Christ Child and Joseph.

Tourists mostly Americans—never had it so good in marble. A sample: a fancy marble desk set—a double pen holder, stationary, rack, ask tray and letter opener—sells for just $7, a fifth of its cost in the States.

The town of Carrara is carved literally from the Apuan Alps. Its fabulous marble comes in snow-white, pink, black and yellow. The hamlet nestles at the base of three towering peaks—Sagro (5,738 feet), Pizzo d'Uccelo (6,384 feet), and Pisanino (6,391 feet). In thousands of years of quarrying, yawning ravines have been cut in the once solid marble slopes.

* * *

CARRARA imparts an otherworldly feeling even to cynical, bargain-happy tourists. The magic mountains loom majestic and serene high above the blue waters of the Mediterranean a few miles away, near Leghorn.

Carrara basks in dazzling sunlight reflected from the marble-sheeted mountain walls. Its population of 62,000 is almost entirely dependent upon the marble for their living.

It is, in sharp contrast to the grandeur of the marble they quarry, a bleak life. Unlike most Italians, the people of Carrara are given to silence.

In Carrara marble quarrying remains shockingly primitive. Giant teams of white oxen drag the huge blocks of marble into place for cutting and transportation to distant markets.

Quarriers sing a mournful song as they sway from ropes against the mountain side drilling holes for the placing of blast charges. A single rope supports each quarrier. Rock slides are frequent, and they take a heavy toll.

* * *

MODERN SAFETY precautions are unknown here. Not even safety shoes and goggles. Even gloves are rarely worn. The life of a marble miner comes cheap; it always has.

Weeks and even months may be spent in drilling and preparing to break away a particular piece of marble. After the marble is blasted from the mountain, it is placed on wooden rollers, and, soap-smeared, it slowly slides to the cutting blocks.

Carrarans, despite their people's long tradition in marble, still live in awe of the marble mountains. The gargantuan slabs of raw marble they regard as something sacred.

They are incredibly expert in the precision blasting of the marble—but, nonetheless, they fear it.

Perhaps it is because the magic mountains have claimed so many hundreds of lives over the centuries—or perhaps it is the abject poverty (the average miner's wage is $2 a day) in which Carrara huddles at the foot of the marble pass, a symbol of marble's enduring mastery over the men who work it.

Solon Feels Dulles To Face Request for Detailed Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) feels that Secretary of State Dulles will be asked to give detailed reports on his talks with heads of other nations.

Fulbright said the Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services committees must have this "pertinent" information as part of the inquiry they ordered Tuesday into American policies in the Middle East in the last 11 years.

Fulbright spoke out in an interview after Sen. Knowland of California, the Republican leader, said that disclosure of this kind of information "is not customary." Knowland said it will not be furnished to the committees.

Other senators said Knowland's statement reflected opposition which President Eisenhower expressed at a White House meeting with them to revealing confidential conversations and correspondence. Democrats conceded that if Eisenhower clamps down the lid on such communications and memoranda, there wouldn't be much they could do about it.

In the Army-McCarthy hearings three years ago, Eisenhower ruled were not to be given information about conversations between policy-making officials of the executive department.

However Fulbright contended that the nature of Dulles' personal diplomacy, which has taken the secretary of state around the world several times, makes it imperative that the committees receive at least a paraphrase of his conversations with heads of other states.

Dulles said in accepting the provisions of the Fulbright resolution Tuesday it was his understanding the inquiry "will not seek to breach the confidence of other friendly nations."

Fulbright said he saw no point in publication of any information at might disturb relations with U.S. allies. He said this could be given the committees on a confidential basis.

Dulles, who will appear again before the combined committees in a closed session Friday, was praised warmly by Eisenhower in a surprise presidential visit to the Capitol Tuesday.

Eisenhower told Republican senators at a luncheon of their party policy committee that Dulles was "an outstanding, dedicated man" who was "doing a terrific job" despite the fact that he was "under handicaps."

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: How can I become more interesting to my fiance? He is away at college most of the time, but home for holidays and some weekends.

On his recent visits home, I've found it difficult to make conversation with him, and have wondered if he is tired of me, or even bored with me. The things I talk about just don't seem to interest him. Maybe I don't express myself well; but I never noticed this problem before.

Would education have anything to do with it? He has been going to college for six years now and I've had only one semester in college. We decided it would be better if I got a job and started saving money so we could marry sooner.

I do want to make him happy, and want him to enjoy himself in my company. But I wish he would pay more attention to me. At times he acts as if I'm not present; he doesn't speak to me or refer to me. He has asked me to his home, then gone off to another room or left the house without inviting me along. Of course his folks were there for me to talk to—a large family, wonderful people.

We double - date occasionally with two good friends and Jim always seems so interested in the other girl. He teases her about her work and asks about it, and seems so interested in all she says. I know he isn't in love with her, but I wish I could capture his interest as she does.

V. Y.

DEAR V. Y.: I regret to say that Jim's behavior, as described, does suggest that something has "turned out the light" of his formerly positive interest in you. Whether the light will go on again is a good question; but chances are that it may, since you've been counting on each other, as prospective life partners, for the last six years.

Persons who invest that much time, thought and routine association in a close relationship, inevitably arrive at a sense of belonging that exists in its own right, independently of the emotions and sentiments that the principals may be feeling about each other, at any given time. And it is this common bond of a "we"-relationship that tends to hold a longtime alliance together, when counter attractions threaten to pull it apart.

In other words, perennial dating becomes ingrained habit and gathers the force of necessity (it may seem), even if the companion pair don't always like, or love or approve of each other. And Jim's recently uncivil — in fact, bored and rejecting—manner with you indicates that fetters of habit, rather than lively preference, keep him engaged to you, currently.

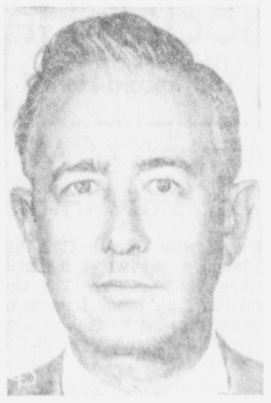

As for what to do about it—assuming you wish to stay engaged and become his wife, the best diplomacy is to treat him as nicely, as graciously and considerately, as if he were a brand new person in your experience, whose friendship and liking you hope to enlist.

At present, he is comparing you critically with some other package of femininity, I gather. And there's no use your trying to outshine the competition (in his mind), whoever she may be. Be yourself, self - respectingly; be poised, unaffected and faithful. And if that isn't enough to revive his good manners, and rekindle a naturally congenial exchange, say by next summer, you might introduce a discussion of the problem, as you see it. That might clear the air, if you care to risk it.

'Ham' Radio Men Aid Flood Work

CINCINNATI (AP)—Two northern Kentucky "ham" radio operators and a helicopter from Cincinnati are helping direct relief personnel and land supplies in disaster flood areas of Kentucky.

The helicopter, piloted by William Polley, left here early Wednesday to pick up supplies in Lexington and drop them in Hazard and Whitesburg.

State Sen. Carl Ruh of South Ft. Mitchell, Ky., and the Rev. Paul Ciagnetti of Covington, Ky., were among the "ham" operators establishing contact with the stricken areas.

Ruh said a network of "hams" was directed from Williamson, Ky. Need of drinking water, medical supplies, food and radio equipment was stressed, he added.

Akron Deputy May Become Millionaire

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Frederick H. Hale, 28, a Summit County deputy sheriff, stands a good chance to inherit an estate valued at a million dollars left by his foster mother, Mrs. Lillian G. Hale, 76, who died Tuesday.

Attorney Cletus G. Roetzel said Tuesday night that the $335-a-month deputy is the sole heir at law despite the existence of two wills. The attorney said he had no part in preparing either will and declined to discuss them.

Mrs. Hale was the widow of John Hale, a development engineer for the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., who died in 1950.

Young Hale already has received three awards of $10,000 each from the estate as the result of a probate court order in 1954. The court set up a guardian for the estate two years earlier because Mrs. Hale was physically disabled.

The estate was valued at $500,000 at that time. It consisted mainly of stocks which have virtually doubled in value.

University Prexy Protocol Decided

TOLEDO (AP)—The Chamber of Commerce has solved a protocol problem which arose after it invited two university presidents to speak at its 63rd annual banquet next Wednesday evening.

The question was:

Who gets to talk first, President Harlan Hatcher of the University of Michigan or President Novice G. Fawcett of Ohio State?

A device used when the two school meet in football games provided the answer.

When the dinner opens, Banquet Chairman E. C. Ames will flip a coin.

Airport-Leasing Authority Asked

COLUMBUS (AP) — Rep. Loretta Woods (R-Scioto) has introduced a bill in the Ohio House authorizing counties to lease airports for 20 years.

Mrs. Woods said statute limits such leases to one year.

She said her measure would make the leasing authority of county commissioners comparable to that of municipalities for airports.

Members of Marilee Garden Club Hear Very Informative Meeting

The Marilee Garden Club held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. Hugh Sollars. The vice-president, Mrs. Frank Lanum, opened the meeting by reading a poem entitled "Humor", written by Thomas L. Masson.

The secretary - treasurer, Mrs. O. E. Harper, read the minutes of the November meeting, an account of the Christmas party in December and the treasurer's report which were accepted.

Following a short business session conducted by Mrs. Lanum, the ten members present answered roll call by naming a variety of geranium: zonal, which is the standard type, ivy - leaved, Lady Washington, sweet - scented and dwarf, were among those named.

The program leader, Mrs. O. E. Harper chose as her topic for discussion "All About Geraniums". The geranium is one of the oldest of flowers mention of it being found in writings of 1633. There is a Moslem legend that accounts for the first geranium. Mohammed was once traveling in a very hot country and stopped by a stream to rest. On the bank of the stream there were many mallow plants. Mohammed dipped his outer garment in the water of the stream and hung it on an overhanging branch. The water dripped from the garment on the mallow plants which turned immediately into beautiful geraniums.

In early times the leaves of the geranium were used as healing agents, especially for wounds made by metal weapons.

The sweet - scented Rose Geranium is a native of the Cape of Good Hope. From it the French extract an oil known as Geranoil. Also it is used in making a clear green jelly known as geranium jelly. The leaves of this flower may be used for flavoring foods. They may be placed in the bottom of a cake pan before the batter is poured in and removed after the cake is baked. They impart to the cake, especially to a sponge cake, a "lively" flavor.

In the days when snuff was used, the dried leaves of the geranium were used to scent the snuff. Also these leaves formed the basis of the pot - pourri, other ingredients being dried rose petals, violets, jasmine, lavender flowers, verbenias, sweet herbs, bay leaves and spices.

Geraniums may be grown from seed. Because they must be cross-pollinated, the plants thus obtained may be unusual. Seedlings will grow to blooming size in about one year and they may be easily grown from slips. These should be cut in August and September or in February and March, with top slips being named as the best. They should have at least three leaves and three joints. Four or five slips may be placed around the edge of a five-inch pot of sand in the center of which a two and one - half inch pot has been placed. The bottom opening of the small pot should be closed and the pot kept full of water. Seepage will provide the slips with plenty of moisture. Rooting hormones may be used but they are not necessary. The slips should be well rooted and ready for planting in about three weeks. The temperature should be about 55 to 60 degrees.

Five rules should be followed in the growing of geraniums: one—feed nitrogenous and balanced fertilizers; two — don't "over - pot" the plant; three — give it plenty of sun; four — water very good, let the plants dry out occasionally, but not to the wilting stage; five—for a bushy plant, pinch after four full leaves have grown.

Ivy - leaf geraniums make beautiful hanging baskets. Dwarf geraniums are excellent for miniature arrangements and zonal geraniums are best for flower boxes and outdoor beds.

Pests and diseases rarely attack geraniums, but if they do, a nicotine compound known as mortopal is a good control.

Because of their bright flowers, attractive leaves and fragrance, geraniums are winning new popularity for themselves. Many flower shows are now including classes for geraniums and geranium arrangements.

Mrs. Lanum closed the meeting by reading a "New Year Poem".

During the social hour the hostess, assisted by Mrs. Glen Smith, served a delicious dessert course.

Envoy Shocks Dictator with His 'Politickin'

U. S. Ambassador Adapts Precinct Methods to Job

By ESTHER TUFTY
By Central Press Ass'n.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — In this apparently contented dictatorship, the United

William T. Pheiffer

States ambassador, William T. Pheiffer, operates like a politician in the middle of a hard-to-win campaign.

A career diplomat might blink at some of his precinct methods, but the results seem rewarding. For example, there's his innovation of putting a little welcome message in the hotel mailbox for each American tourist, telling him to consider the embassy as his home away from home.

Ambassador Pheiffer explained, "Many Americans never go to their embassy unless they are in trouble."

Many do drop in, and he sees as many as possible personally. A request for a snapshot with him is granted as readily as President Eisenhower did when asked by Republican candidates for twosome pictures during the last election.

When the State Department recovered from the shock of the success of the welcome notes, it was decided to suggest that other ambassadors do likewise, where practical. Obviously the larger embassies in London, Paris and Rome could not handle the number of people who would respond.

* * *

IF THE genial ambassador, a former New York congressman, startled U. S. citizens touring the Caribbean, he must have upset Generalissimo Trujillo even more, when he jumped into an old auto shortly after his arrival and went to the people with his story of the United States. Good politics forbade using the embassy limousine.

Maybe he was tempted to nail up a campaign picture (like the one behind his desk) here and there along the way, but that might seem an affront to the generalissimo, whose face and name appear everywhere.

The Dominican people, Pheiffer found, like voters back home, would gather around his car to hear what he had to say. His Spanish isn't perfect, but he tries. Anyway, the country folk, who see few dignataries, liked the attention and frequently gave him gifts, including a crate of live chickens!

OF COURSE, officialdom soon got the word about the strange actions of the number one American in their country, and the generalissimo's boys came to investigate.

In dealing with General Trujillo, who really has ruled the country since 1930, the ambassador said he "put his cards on the table" and found the general "honorable in fulfilment of his commitments."

Like most politicians, Ambassador Pheiffer voices the obvious about the local situation. First, after making very clear that the Trujillo government is "the antithesis of ours", he admits that economic progress has been made, and that "in all honesty we must render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's."

These include the phenomenal change from chaos to order, which anyone can see in the new buildings, roads, hotels, hospitals, and more dramatically in the absence of bloody revolutions and disease so prevalent 27 years ago when Trujillo became the leader.

IN THE United Nations, this country, first in the New World discovered by Columbus, is lined up with the United States 98 per cent of the time. Trumillo's fanatical hatred of communism is well established. His people idolize him, at least 85 per cent spontaneously.

Once allergic to foreign capital, Trujillo and his brother, Hector, who has the title of president, are pushing toward industrial expansion and welcome foreign investors, especially from the United States.

Maybe only a strong, ruthless leader could have brought such economic growth to a backward people, but if Trujillo looks to the future it is possible he will set up a more democratic regime while he still is alive to launch it.

The absence of a likely heir-apparent makes this prospect seem at least a possibility.

Few people know that at one time a sizeable steam-powered passenger bus was operated in Washington C. H.

It was around 50 years ago, when automobiles and motor vehicles generally were in their infancy, that George Melvin, who operated the Melvin Hotel, later the Imperial Hotel, which stood on the corner of Main and East St., owned such a bus, and operated it to haul passengers to and from the various railroad stations, except the C&MV (now the Pennsylvania) which was just across the street from the corner entrance to the Melvin hostelry's lobby.

This bus had two seats, running the length of the body of the vehicle, so that passengers sat facing each other, according to Harry Miller, early auto mechanic, who worked on the famous bus more than once.

The bus was imperfect mechanically to start with, and Miller and George Swope vitually had to rebuild part of it so it would work with some degree of satisfaction.

Miller recalls that the ball bearings of the crankshaft of the old steamer were continually giving way, until he and Swope did away with the ball bearings and installed bronze bearings, which worked all right.

The bus was one of the outstanding attractions in the city when it was in its heyday (I'll look that word up later), and the natives stood almost in awe as it hissed and chugged up and down the streets, emitting steam and making plenty of noise as only a steam engine can.

But one day while making a trip to one of the stations the thing caught fire. Miller does not recall whether they called out the old Babcock steam fire engine to squelch the flames, or just what happened, but the blaze was extinguished without too much damage.

But the next time, a few months later, when the old steamer caught fire, it was so badly damaged that even Harry Miller and George Swope could not do much about it, so Melvin, thoroughly disgusted with steam buses generally, sold it to Donald Wills, and went back to horse-drawn cabs to move his guests to and fro, the railroad stations.

Wills, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wills, took the old bus, got it into running condition, equipped it with a pair of corn plow wheels, and used it as a plaything, running it about the streets and elsewhere, until it was finally junked.

WILL DUCKS RETURN?

George Blackmore, owner of the Herefordshire Motel, and operator of the Del Rancho Motel nearby on the CCC Highway west, is wondering if, early in the spring, five wild ducks which made their home on a miniature lake in front of his Herefordshire Motel, will return to their former nesting place.

Last March a pair of wild ducks dropped down upon the little lake, and, although very wary at first, became rather tame and never missed a call for feed.

They nested and hatched seven ducklings, four of which waddled into the roadway and were killed.

The other three grew to maturity, but in late November they all took off for Southern winter quarters.

Now George is wondering if they will return and will bring some additional members of the family with them, or just the two original ducks will be back in the spring.

NEW FUR BEARER!

An animal which may do much toward furnishing valuable fur for commercial use is just beginning to become known in this part of the country, and if released for wild propagation, might take the place of the mink and muskrat as a fur bearing animal.

It is the South American "Cabana Nutria", which is known as the tusked - beaver, and is now being raised by many persons in the United States. It resembles the muskrat, and is much in demand for its exceptionally fine fur.

I know of only one person who is raising the animals. He is William Tolle, residing in Highland County west of Hillsboro, who obtained three pairs of the animals to start his Cabana Nutria farm.

"GRANDMA PICKS GEESE"

During that snowstorm Tuesday morning, when flakes 1½ inches across, fell in abundance, I know that more than one person thought of that expression which was so common many years ago when large flakes were falling —that "Grandma is picking her geese".

And in those days Grandma really picked her geese to obtain the fine, downy feathers for making pillows, featherbeds, and cushions. Some featherbeds contained as many as 50 pounds of feathers, which meant that Grandma really had to do a lot of picking.

It also meant that there were just about as many squawks as there were feathers, for the geese invariably gave a cry of torture in losing their feathers when Grandma gave a yank.

When Grandma picked her geese, there were naturally a few stray feathers flying about, and that apparently gave rise to the expression that "Grandma is picking her geese" when the youngsters saw large feathery flakes of snow falling.

To pick the geese, "Grandma" found it necessary to hold the goose in her lap, with its head tucked away securely to prevent the big birds from biting when they resisted the operation of losing their feathers by the handfull.

Other feathers were obtained when the fowls were killed and scalded, but the finest of the feathers were plucked directly from the live birds.

College Plans Aid For Injured Player

BEAVER FALLS, Pa. (AP)—Geneva College has announced it will open a drive for funds to help a 21-year-old football player injured in a game last Sept. 29.

The player, Richard Kadis, remains in a semi-conscious condition at Cleveland Clinic Hospital. Kadis collapsed after a game with Waynesburg College.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kadis, parents of the former Youngstown high school football star, said his hospital and medical bills now total almost $10,000. Kadis suffered a brain injury.

UAW Conference Due in Sandusky

TOLEDO (AP)—The 19th annual conference of Region 2-B, United Auto Workers Union, opens Saturday in Sandusky and registrations indicate it will rank among the biggest regional UAW conventions. Some 300 delegates from northwestern Ohio are due.

Charles Ballard, regional director, said interest in the two-day meeting is strong because of a proposed dues increase, a change in the status of skilled trades workers in UAW negotiations and a scheduled outline of bargaining goals for 1958 contracts.

Emil Mazey, UAW secretary-treasurer, will speak Sunday.

U. S. Steel Chief Sees Improvements

NEW YORK (AP) — Roger M. Blough, chairman of United States Steel Corp., expects the steel industry to do a better job this year than last in meeting demand for scarce plates and structural steel.

He predicted Tuesday the industry's production of these items would run about 15 to 20 per cent ahead of the 1956 output. Such an increase would provide at least some relief for hard-pressed shipbuilders, highway contractors and other heavy construction builders, he said.

Blough, who heads the world's largest steel company, said the industry is able to satisfy adequately the current demands for most other types of steel.

He forecast near-capacity operations for the first quarter of this year and said it should be followed by a "very good second quarter." Talks with steel customers, he added, indicate that demand for steel will hold at a "very good level" for the full year.

Blough made his predictions at a news conference following a meeting at which the directors of "Big Steel" raised the dividend on common stock to 75 cents a share, 10 cents more than was paid in previous quarters.

The company also reported the highest fourth quarter earnings and shipments in its history. Net income for the quarter amounted to $104,528,839, or $1.83 a share, compared with $102,690,682, equal to $1.80 a share, the same period last year. The earnings record for any quarter remains the $105,225,558, or $1.85 a share, reported for the second quarter of 1955.

School Board Aide Loses on Appeal

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court has refused to review the appeal of Rex Miller from lower court orders for him to surrender books of the South Point Local School District, Lawrence County, to Marshall Ankrim.

Miller claimed that his appointment as clerk of the board of education on Jan. 4, 1951, was for a four-year term. Membership of the board changed on Jan. 2, 1956, and Ankrim was hired. The appellate court said the state legislature gave the board the power to remove its clerk.

Income Tax Returns Must Include 'W-2'

Taxpayers who worked for more one employer during 1956 must be careful to attach to their federal income tax returns for the year all their W-2 withholding tax certificates, District Director Russell A. Welch, of the Internal Revenue Service for the Cincinnati District, warns.

"Many people worked for two or more employers during the year," Welch pointed out. "Generally such employers furnished employes who left their employ proper certificates, (Form W-2), shortly after they left their place of employment.

"It's important to keep these certificates for use in computing tax status at the end of the year. Employes who did not receive W-2's from their employers should apply to such employers at once for them, and those who have lost them should request duplicates."

"What it boils down to is this: Everyone who pays federal income tax through payroll deductions by the employer must produce all his withholding certificates. Their cumulative total may help him get a refund, and more often than not, they do".

Employers also were asked by Welch to make sure that all temporary or part-time help have received certificates due them.

Envoy Shocks Dictator with His 'Politickin'

U. S. Ambassador Adapts Precinct Methods to Job

By ESTHER TUFTY
By Central Press Ass'n.

CIUDAD TRUJILLO, Dominican Republic — In this apparently contented dictatorship, the United States ambassador, William T. Pheiffer, operates like a politician in the middle of a hard-to-win campaign.

William T. Pheiffer

A career diplomat might blink at some of his precinct methods, but the results seem rewarding. For example, there's his innovation of putting a little welcome message in the hotel mailbox for each American tourist, telling him to consider the embassy as his home away from home.

Ambassador Pheiffer explained, "Many Americans never go to their embassy unless they are in trouble."

Many do drop in, and he sees as many as possible personally. A request for a snapshot with him is granted as readily as President Eisenhower did when asked by Republican candidates for twosome pictures during the last election.

When the State Department recovered from the shock of the success of the welcome notes, it was decided to suggest that other ambassadors do likewise, where practical. Obviously the larger embassies in London, Paris and Rome could not handle the number of people who would respond.

* * *

IF THE genial ambassador, a former New York congressman, startled U. S. citizens touring the Caribbean, he must have upset Generalissimo Trujillo even more, when he jumped into an old auto shortly after his arrival and went to the people with his story of the United States. Good politics forbade using the embassy limousine.

Movie Stars Pay Dearly For Divorce Proceedings

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles on divorce practices in Hollywood's movie colony.

By BOL THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Movie stars pay for their divorces, both in money and personal hell.

California law sees to it that they pay in money. This state has a community property law that decrees husband wife share equally in wealth acquired during their marriage.

Some cynics claim this law has held together many a shaky marriage. But a filmland lawyer disputed this, claiming, "if a man can't live peacefully with his wife, he is liable to pay anything—even go in debt—to be free."

Errol Flynn is a classic example. He has earned millions but is a debtor, due in large part to his alimony payments to Lily Damita and Nora Eddington.

Another case is Jack Webb. He married Julie London when both were struggling performers. He gave her a half-million of his "Dragnet" earnings when they divorced.

But divorce means more than money. It is also a tragedy of human conflict, and that's the area where it hurts most.

Often the whole story is not told in the divorce courts. Explained a lawyer: "The 'mental cruelty' grounds in California are so loose that almost anything can be used. Usually the wife doesn't want to harm an actor's career by saying he drank too much. So innocuous grounds are used."

But in three film breakups chosen from recent history the issues are fairly clear and they shed some light on marital problems in Hollywood. They are.

Case No. 1—Edythe Marriner (Susan Hayward), 24, Jeff Barker, 30, married Santa Fe, Calif., July 24, 194-.

Despite one separation in the first year, this marriage had the outward appearance of being a happy one for 10 years. The couple was blessed with twin boys, to whom they were devoted.

But as Susan's career rose, Jess's descended. Once a successful stage actor, he found little work in films while she was winning academy nominations. "As a father, you ought to set an example for your sons and go to work," she told him. "You knew I was an actor when you married me," he replied.

Their smoldering differences erupted when he tossed her nude into the swimming pool after hot words.

Diagnosis: Wife's career overshadows husband's.

Case No. 2—Greta Konen, 30, Gregory Peck 27, married New York City, Oct. 4, 1942.

They met when he was a budding young actor touring with Katharine Cornell and she was the star's hairdresser. The years brought them three sons, and he became a top film star. Though they appeared happy, they grew apart. He had matured and changed from the struggling actor she first knew.

He worked abroad for two years to get a tax break. When she visited him, he told her, "we would be better friends if we were not married."

Diagnosis: Estrangement.

Result: Divorce, Dec. 29, 1954.

Case No. 3—Jeanne Crain, 21, Paul Brinkman, 27, married Los Angeles, Dec. 31, 1945.

Although she married against her mother's wishes, the union was believed to be one of Hollywood's happiest. They had four children and always appeared affectionate in public.

Hollywood was shocked when they separated. She said he had beaten her unconscious, ripped off her clothes and threatened to disfigure her "so I would never work again and no man would ever look at me again." Each accused the other of infidelity.

Diagnosis: Jealousy, predominance of her career.

Result: Divorce, Aug. 6, 1956; reconciled, Dec. 31, 1956 due to strength of religion and concern for children.

Cultural Center In Capital Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special commission has presented to President Eisenhower and to Congress recommendations for a $35 million cultural center here.

Funds to build the center would be raised by public subscription.

Mrs. Eugene Meyer, chairman of the commission, said the nation could "feel only embarrassment" at the present "poverty of Washington's housing for music, drama, dance and public discussion."

The center would have facilities for major conferences and conventions, inaugural balls, and theatrical and musical events.

Bermuda first minted its own coins in the early 1600's. Only about 10 genuine specimens are now believed in existence,all of which are of great value.

New Jet Engine Utilizes Exhaust

NEW YORK (AP) — A jet airliner design which would spread the engine exhaust all along the trailing edge of the wing, to provide lifting power as well as forward thrust, was outlined to the nation's scientists yesterday.

Designer John S. Attinello said the design would enable a large jet-powered transport plane to rise or descend almost vertically, operating from tiny landing strips only about twice as long as the aircraft themselves. He spoke before the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

Argentine Hit By Record Heat

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) Argentina is suffering its worst heat wave in the century it has been keeping weather records.

The temperature soared to 109.9 degrees Tuesday. The highest mark since weather records were started in 1856. Eleven heat deaths were reported in Buenos Aires and 7 in Avellaneda.

Italy's Opera In Hands of Economist

ROME (AP)—A pudgy, bald-headed lawyer with an engaging grin held the future of Italy's opera houses in his hands today—and the entire nation of opera lovers waited on his decision.

Adone Zoli, 59-year-old budget minister who sits in the Senate for Florence, Italy's city of the arts, wants to chop nearly one-quarter off the national subsidy to the citadels of song.

If he does, his opponents say, the entire musical future of Italy may be endangered. Orchestras will be fired and singers laid off, and it may never be possible to bring them together again.

Not true, Zoli reports. He claims that top-line stars are overpaid for their brief exertions on the stage, and that managements could save money in many ways without interfering with the quality of performances.

But Zoli, who once was sentenced to death by Mussolini's Fascists for sticking to his own forthright views, will have a hard fight on this issue.

This time, instead of a possible firing squad, he faces the combined opposition of a nation of music lovers—a nation where the postman whistles "rock 'n' roll" on the way up the street, and Verdi's "Aida" on the way down.

The mayors of Italy's 12 big opera cities called on Zoli in force after deliberating in Rome for days on the threat to the lyric theater.

They told him that if he insists on trimming the national opera subsidy from 6 million dollars to $4,200,000, he may well be signing the death warrant of the singing drama in Italy.

Politics Divides Airpower Report

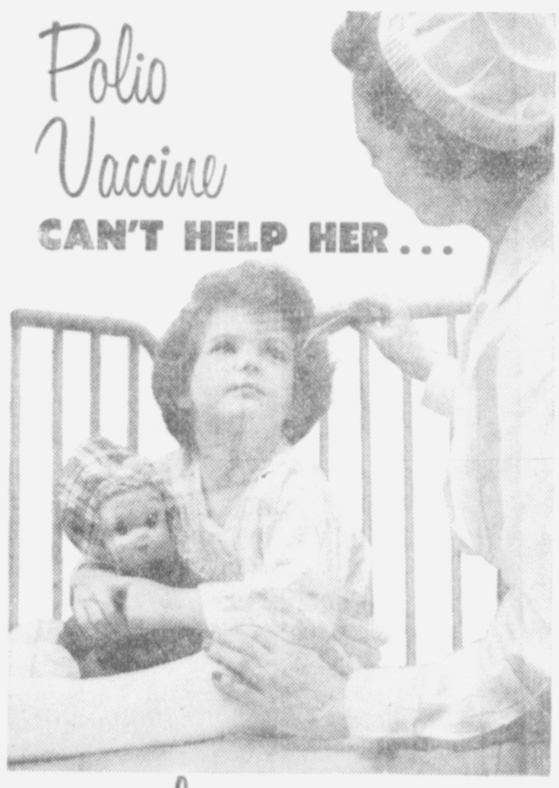

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans on a special Senate subcommittee which made an investigation of the nation's airpower split squarely on party lines today in their report.

The three Democrats said that the United States is becoming increasingly vulnerable to sneak Russian attack and that programs of retaliation are lagging.

The two Republicans called the majority report "unduly pessimistic," and said that "our airpower and our naval strength, together with our ground forces, make us superior to the Soviet."

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Polio Vaccine
CAN'T HELP HER...

only YOU can

Your March of Dimes funds are providing the care she needs. For she is one of the tens of thousands of polio victims "born too soon"—before the epic polio vaccine. Today, March of Dimes funds which developed and tested the vaccine are financing research to improve it. But there still are polio victims who need help. And there will be tens of thousands more stricken before the nation has its blanket of protection. March of Dimes plus the hearts and hands of polio fighters everywhere must continue to provide our main bulwark against polio.

Diagnosis: Wife's career overshadows husband's.

Result: Divorce, Aug. 17, 1954.

Case No. 2—Greta Konen, 30, Gregory Peck 27, married New York City, Oct. 4, 1942.

They met when he was a budding young actor touring with Katharine Cornell and she was the star's hairdresser. The years brought them three sons, and he became a top film star. Though they appeared happy, they grew apart. He had matured and changed from the struggling actor she first knew.

He worked abroad for two years to get a tax break. When she visited him, he told her, "we would be better friends if we were not married."

Diagnosis: Estrangement.

Result: Divorce, Dec. 29, 1954.

Case No. 3—Jeanne Crain, 21, Paul Brinkman, 27, married Los Angeles, Dec. 31, 1945.

Although she married against her mother's wishes, the union was believed to be one of Hollywood's happiest. They had four children and always appeared affectionate in public.

Hollywood was shocked when they separated. She said he had beaten her unconscious, ripped off her clothes and threatened to disfigure her "so I would never work again and no man would ever look at me again." Each accused the other of infidelity.

Diagnosis: Jealousy, predominance of her career.

Result: Divorce, Aug. 6, 1956; reconciled, Dec. 31, 1956 due to strength of religion and concern for children.

(Tomorrow: Stars discuss reasons for divorce)

Cultural Center In Capital Urged

WASHINGTON (AP) — A special commission has presented to President Eisenhower and to Congress recommendations for a $35 million cultural center here.

Funds to build the center would be raised by public subscription.

Mrs. Eugene Meyer, chairman of the commission, said the nation could "feel only embarrassment" at the present "poverty of Washington's housing for music, drama, dance and public discussion."

The center would have facilities for major conferences and conventions, inaugural balls, and theatrical and musical events.

Bermuda first minted its own coins in the early 1600's. Only about 10 genuine specimens are now believed in existence, all of which are of great value.

New Jet Engine Utilizes Exhaust

NEW YORK (AP) — A jet airliner design which would spread the engine exhaust all along the trailing edge of the wing, to provide lifting power as well as forward thrust, was outlined to the nation's scientists yesterday.

Designer John S. Attinello said the design would enable a large jet-powered transport plane to rise or descend almost vertically, operating from tiny landing strips only about twice as long as the aircraft themselves. He spoke before the Institute of the Aeronautical Sciences.

Argentine Hit By Record Heat

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) Argentina is suffering its worst heat wave in the century it has been keeping weather records.

The temperature soared to 109.9 degrees Tuesday. The highest mark since weather records were started in 1856. Eleven heat deaths were reported in Buenos Aires and 7 in Avellaneda.

Italy's Opera In Hands of Economist

ROME (AP)—A pudgy, bald-headed lawyer with an engaging grin held the future of Italy's opera houses in his hands today—and the entire nation of opera lovers waited on his decision.

Adone Zoli, 59-year-old budget minister who sits in the Senate for Florence, Italy's city of the arts, wants to chop nearly one-quarter off the national subsidy to the citadels of song.

If he does, his opponents say, the entire musical future of Italy may be endangered. Orchestras will be fired and singers laid off, and it may never be possible to bring them together again.

Not true, Zoli reports. He claims that top-line stars are overpaid for their brief exertions on the stage, and that managements could save money in many ways without interfering with the quality of performances.

But Zoli, who once was sentenced to death by Mussolini's Fascists for sticking to his own forthright views, will have a hard fight on this issue.

This time, instead of a possible firing squad, he faces the combined opposition of a nation of music lovers—a nation where the postman whistles "rock 'n' roll" on the way up the street, and Verdi's "Aida" on the way down.

The mayors of Italy's 12 big opera cities called on Zoli in force after deliberating in Rome for days on the threat to the lyric theater.

They told him that if he insists on trimming the national opera subsidy from 6 million dollars to $4,200,000, he may well be signing the death warrant of the singing drama in Italy.

Politics Divides Airpower Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats and Republicans on a special Senate subcommittee which made an investigation of the nation's airpower split squarely on party lines today in their report.

The three Democrats said that the United States is becoming increasingly vulnerable to sneak Russian attack and that programs of retaliation are lagging.

The two Republicans called the majority report "unduly pessimistic," and said that "our airpower and our naval strength, together with our ground forces, make us superior to the Soviet."

Your March of Dimes funds are providing the care she needs. For she is one of the tens of thousands of polio victims "born too soon"—before the epic polio vaccine. Today, March of Dimes funds which developed and tested the vaccine are financing research to improve it. But there still are polio victims who need help. And there will be tens of thousands more stricken before the nation has its blanket of protection. March of Dimes plus the hearts and hands of polio fighters everywhere must continue to provide our main bulwark against polio.

Proper Preparation of Meats Topic for 2-Day Lecture Here

A lecture and demonstration on how to cook meat is to be given at The Dayton Power & Light Co. auditorium Wednesday, Feb. 6, for high school home economics students and on Thursday Feb. 7, for all women in the community.

The lectures and demonstrations will be given by Miss Ruth O. Hogan of Chicago, home economist of the National Livestock and Meat Board. The double program is sponsored by the Fayette County Farm Bureau Women's Committee.

The program for home economics students is to start at 1 p. m. More than 200 are expected to come from the five high schools in Fayette County—Bloomingburg, Jeffersonville, Good Hope, Madison Mills and Washington C. H.— and four in adjoining counties— Greenfield, New Holland, Sabina and Leesburg.

Skid Row Man Now Refutes His Confession

CHICAGO (AP)—Edward (Bennie) Bedwell, illiterate young Skid Row dishwasher, says he did not kill the Grimes sisters and the lengthy statement he signed admitting the slayings was a lie.

Bedwell testified in court Wednesday that he signed a 14-page confession after four days of questioning because "the sheriff's men beat and kicked me."

The 21-year-old derelict retracted the confession at a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus before Chief Justice Wilbert F. Crowley.

His attorney, David E. Bradshaw, demanded that Bedwell, who is charged with the murders of the Grimes sisters, Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 13, be admitted to bail on the ground that his purported confession is false.

In the statement which Sheriff Joseph Lohman said Bedwell signed, the Skid Row drifter related that he and a companion named "Frank" had taken the Grimes sisters on a week-long sex and drinking spree.

On the night of Jan. 13, the statement said, they beat the sisters and dumped their bodies alongside a rural road southwest of Chicago. Their nude, frozen bodies were found Jan. 22. The girls had been missing from their home since Dec. 28.

Medical evidence disclosed at an inquest has discounted several of the statements in Bedwell's confession announced by Lohman last Sunday. Preliminary findings of an autopsy indicate the girls may have died within hours after their disappearance.

BEING TRIED AS TRAFFIC AID

DOUGLAS AIRCRAFT employes chat, play cards and have coffee on a chartered bus taking them from the Palos Verdes-South Bay area to Santa Monica, a transport "additive" the company thought might alleviate some of the Los Angeles area's traffic jam problems. WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today "there is now the expectation that medical research will lead to greater control of the diseases of the heart."

Skid Row Man Now Refutes His Confession

CHICAGO (AP)—Edward (Bennie) Bedwell, illiterate young Skid Row dishwasher, says he did not kill the Grimes sisters and the lengthy statement he signed admitting the slayings was a lie.

Bedwell testified in court Wednesday that he signed a 14-page confession after four days of questioning because "the sheriff's men beat and kicked me."

The 21-year-old derelict retracted the confession at a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus before Chief Justice Wilbert F. Crowley.

His attorney, David E. Bradshaw, demanded that Bedwell, who is charged with the murders of the Grimes sisters, Barbara, 15, and Patricia, 13, be admitted to bail on the ground that his purported confession is false.

In the statement which Sheriff Joseph Lohman said Bedwell signed, the Skid Row drifter related that he and a companion named "Frank" had taken the Grimes sisters on a week-long sex and drinking spree.

On the night of Jan. 13, the statement said, they beat the sisters and dumped their bodies alongside a rural road southwest of Chicago. Their nude, frozen bodies were found Jan. 22. The girls had been missing from their home since Dec. 28.

Medical evidence disclosed at an inquest has discounted several of the statements in Bedwell's confession announced by Lohman last Sunday. Preliminary findings of an autopsy indicate the girls may have died within hours after their disappearance.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower said today "there is now the expectation that medical research will lead to greater control of the diseases of the heart."

Eisenhower termed such diseases "one of the major health problems of our time," affecting more than 10 million Americans.

Dream Comes True for Sugar Grove Methodists; Redecorated Church To Be Dedicated Sunday

A dream of the congregation of the Sugar Grove Methodist Church has come true—but not without hard work and sacrifice.

And, Sunday the redecorated and remodeled church is to be dedicated with an open house in the afternoon from 2 until 4:30 o'clock and a special service in the evening from 7:30 until 9:30 o'clock.

The other regular services will be held Sunday, too—Sunday School from 10 to 11 a. m., worhip service from 11 a. m. until noon and the Youth Fellowship hour starting at 6:30 p. m.

The open house was arranged to give the people of the community an opportunity to see what has been done at the church during the last year or more. Members of the congregation will be there to show them around and tell the story of the church and its service to the people through the years.

The Rev. Norman Renn, pastor of the Calvary Baptist Church here, is to be the guest speaker at the evening dedication service. There also will be a Gospel hymn sing, led by William G. Abernathy of Washington C. H.

* * *

THE SIMPLE red brick country church stands serenely in a grove of tall forest trees on the high bank above Sugar Creek about four miles south of Washington C. H. on Greenfield Rd. It has been there as a pillar of spiritual strength and guidance since it was built in 1890, when the entire community was just emerbing from the wilderness. There were no hard-surfaced roads then and no automobiles; the people came from miles around in carriages and on horseback.

But through the years, the church has kept pace with progress. It always has had the staunch support of the people; it was never permitted to fall into disrepair, although it suffered some from constant use.

It was to brighten it and adapt it to modern uses that the remodeling and redecorating program was started a little more than a year ago after years of dreaming and months of planning.

Now that work has been completed. The basement, with its five classrooms and toilets has been redecorated. A new modern kitchen has been built in and a new heating system installed.

The sanctuary and the transept have been redecorated to emphasize the religious atmosphere that always has surrounded the church.

* * *

THE PARISHIONERS had to dig into their pockets for $9,798 to pay for it, but there never has been any hint that the results were not worth every cent of the cost. To those who have dreamed of putting the church in its rightful appearance has come a pride in achievement that they cannot value in dollars and cents.

Contributions of money were made by Sunday School classes, church organizations and by individuals. There also were contributions of work and materials; the members of the Friendship Class, for example, painted the basement.

Installation of the new heating system was the first major project of the program undertaken. It was completed in the fall of 1955 and that meant that other work could go on inside through the winter.

Never during the remodeling and redecorating, were the services interrupted, although there were times in the summer when Sunday School classes met outdoors under the trees.

The board of trustees directed the overall program and the financing, but much of the actual work fell to the lot of the building committee composed of Eldon Armbrust, Osman King and Howard Barney. The trustees are Harold Hise, chairman, John Merritt, Luther King, Harry Silcott, Eldon Bethards, George Anderson, Willard Armbrust, Eldon Armbrust and Paul Brunner. Silcott was the treasurer of the building fund.

* * *

IN A LEAFLET that has been prepared for the dedication service, appreciation is expressed to the Rev. Eugene Frazer, a former pastor, for his help in planning the redecorating and remodeling program, and to the Rev. Ralph Yoss, the present pastor.

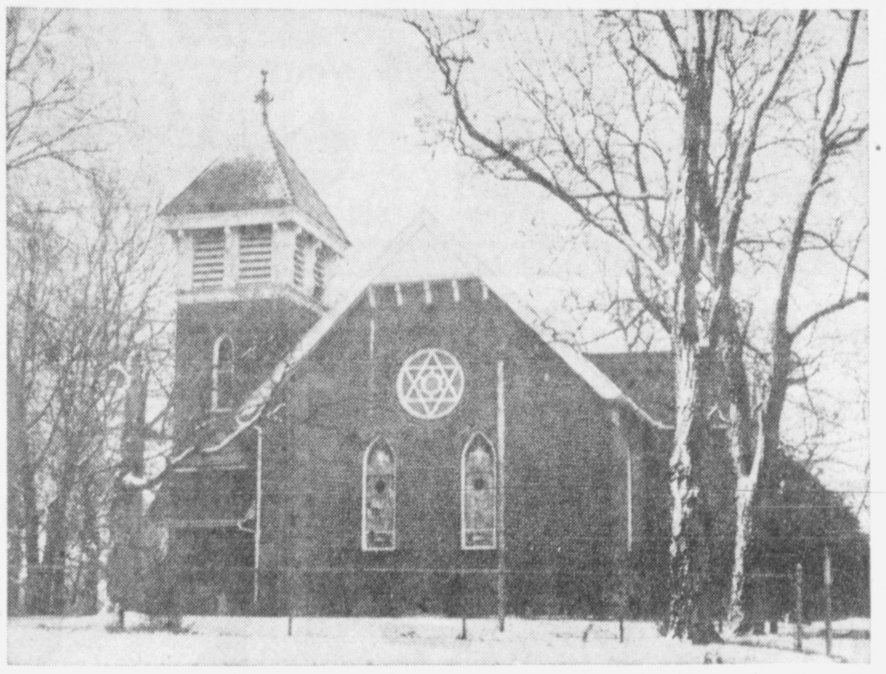

While the congregation may not be as large as those in some churches, it is as staunch as any. The Sunday School is the pride of the people of the community.

In 1947, a school bus was purchased for the church by the late Elmer Armbrust to bring the children to Sunday school. Maintained by the Men's Brotherhood Class, it goes up one road and down another over an area within five miles of the church every Sunday to pick up the youngsters.

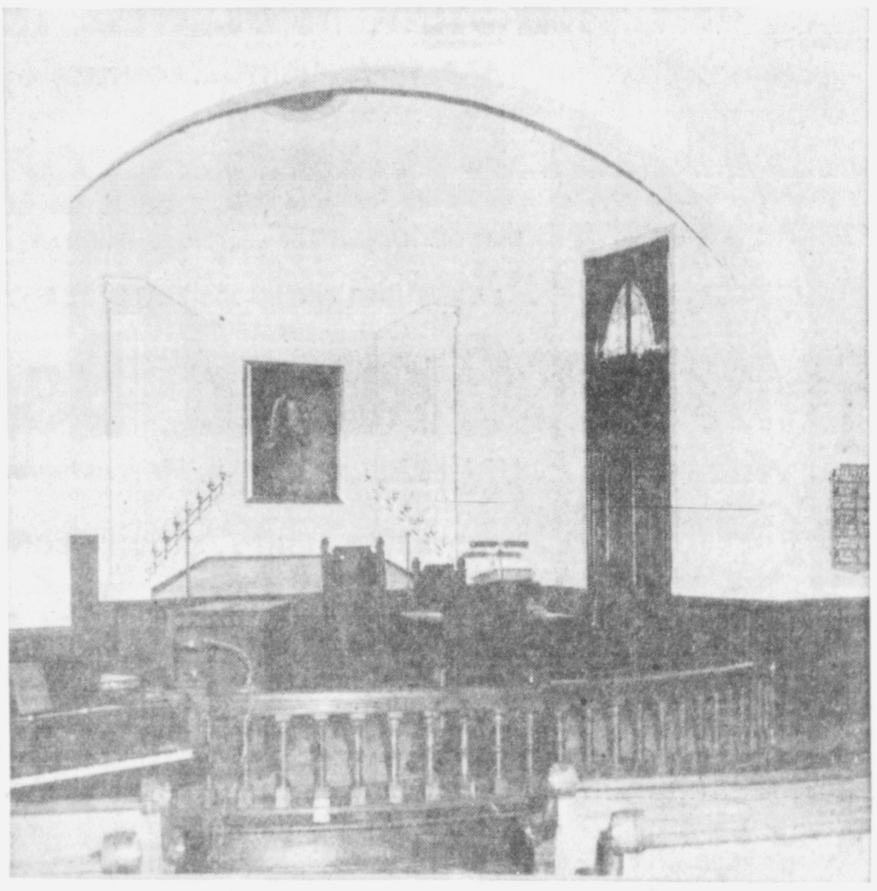

An average of around 40 boys and girls are brought to the church every week by the bus.

Church and Sunday School attendance for January averaged 126.

Sunday School is held every Sunday for both adults and children, but the worship service is held only every other Sunday, because the pastor serves four other churches of the parish.

SUIT FILED BY STATE

The state of Ohio has filed suit against Wayne Hoop in Common Pleas Court here for $1,845.02 in damages awarded to Howard Jett by the Bureau of Workmen Compensation for loss of time from work, medical and hospital bills for injuries sustained while in the employ of Hoop. Jett's claim on which the BUC award was based specified loss of time from work from June 10, 1954 to Feb. 22, 1955.

PONDERS INSURANCE CASE

Judge John P. Case of the Common Pleas Court has taken under advisement a request of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States to decide who should get the money from a $1,000 insurance policy.

The case was brought to court by the Society in settlement of the estates of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Horney, who were fatally injured in an automobile accident on the CCC Highway in October 1955. Their only child also was fatally injured at the same time.

The $1,000 policy was on Mrs. Horney and was issued as a part of a group insurance program of the Dr. Heinz Co. of Bloomingburg where she was employed. Her husband was named the beneficiary.

Mrs. Horney died on Oct. 29, 1955 and her husband the following day. Their son, Victor E. Horney, died Nov. 7, 1955.

Defendants in the case are A. W. Kirkpatrick, administrator of the estate of Joan Horney; Wilbur Horney, father and administrator of the estate of Bill Horney, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin M. Fulton of Mt. Sterling, parents of Mrs. Bill Horney.

Under the insurance contract, according to the petition, payment on the policy is in this order: to surviving husband or wife, surviving children, parents, brothers and sisters and the executors or administrators of the estates.

The hearing was held by Judge Case Wednesday.

Composer Gene Austin, who wrote "When My Sugar Walks Down the Street," joined the U. S. Army at the age of 15.

Much-Married Manicurist Facing Indiana Bigamy Rap

DAYTON (AP)—Mrs. Cynthia Delores Corraditti, 23, returned to Richmond, Ind., scene of her seventh and most recent marriage, today to face a bigamy charge.

The attractive young manicurist told Dayton police her story of seven marriages, but only four divorces, Monday after Eugene Fultz and Raymond Morris, husbands 6 and 7, learned about each other.

At that time, Mrs. Corraditti, who apparently did not divorce Benni Corraditti after their marriage in 1953, indicated she is expecting a baby and said no one seemed to want her.

Wednesday, however, both Fultz and Morris said they want her back if she can straighten out her entanglement.

And a man and woman, claiming to be her father and mother, phoned from different parts of the country to ask about her.

The man, who identified himself as W. M. Viles of Oklahoma City said he was "out of funds" and unable to come to her.

The woman identified herself as Mrs. Evelyn Boyd of San Diego, Calif. She said she would leave San Diego today and travel east to see Mrs. Corraditti.

"I want to clear this up regardless of what price I have to pay," Mrs. Corraditti declared.

Dayton police said Richmond authorities took the young woman to Indiana where, they said, she was last married on Jan. 14. Detectives said she and Morris indicated it was the first marriage for each when they appeared before John Longstreet, a justice of the peace.

The father of the child Mrs. Corraditti says she is expecting has not been identified.

Besides facing one or more bigamy charges, she was charged here with defrauding the government. Police said she admitted receiving government allotment checks from a husband in the Air Force and another in the Navy.

It was to brighten it and adapt it to modern uses that the remodeling and redecorating program was started a little more than a year ago after years of dreaming and months of planning.

Now that work has been completed. The basement, with its five classrooms and toilets has been redecorated. A new modern kitchen has been built in and a new heating system installed.

The sanctuary and the transept have been redecorated to emphasize the religious atmosphere that always has surrounded the church.

* * *

THE PARISHIONERS had to dig into their pockets for $9,798 to pay for it, but there never has been any hint that the results were not worth every cent of the cost. To those who have dreamed of putting the church in its rightful appearance has come a pride in achievement that they cannot value in dollars and cents.

Contributions of money were made by Sunday School classes, church organizations and by individuals. There also were contributions of work and materials; the members of the Friendship Class, for example, painted the basement.

Installation of the new heating system was the first major project of the program undertaken. It was completed in the fall of 1955 and that meant that other work could go on inside through the winter.

Never during the remodeling and redecorating, were the services interrupted, although there were times in the summer when Sunday School classes met outdoors under the trees.

The board of trustees directed the overall program and the financing, but much of the actual work fell to the lot of the building committee composed of Eldon Armbrust, Osman King and Howard Barney. The trustees are Harold Hise, chairman, John Merritt, Luther King, Harry Silcott, Eldon Bethards, George Anderson, Willard Armbrust, Eldon Armbrust and Paul Brunner. Silcott was the treasurer of the building fund.

* * *

IN A LEAFLET that has been prepared for the dedication service, appreciation is expressed to the Rev. Eugene Frazer, a former pastor, for his help in planning the redecorating and remodeling program, and to the Rev. Ralph Yoss, the present pastor.

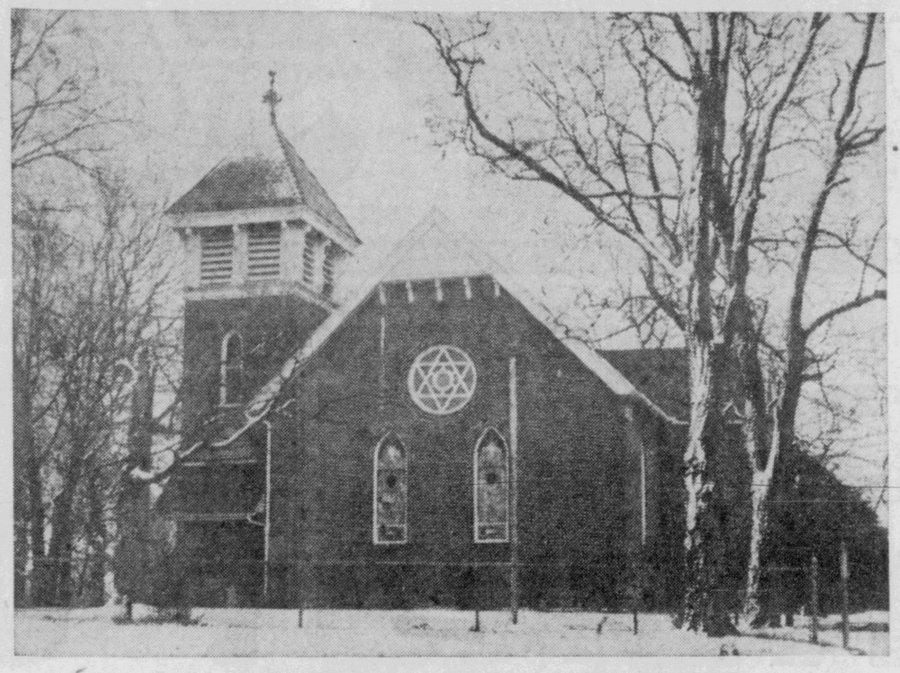

While the congregation may not be as large as those in some churches, it is as staunch as any. The Sunday School is the pride of the people of the community.

In 1947, a school bus was purchased for the church by the late Elmer Armbrust to bring the children to Sunday school. Maintained by the Men's Brotherhood Class, it goes up one road and down another over an area within five miles of the church every Sunday to pick up the youngsters.

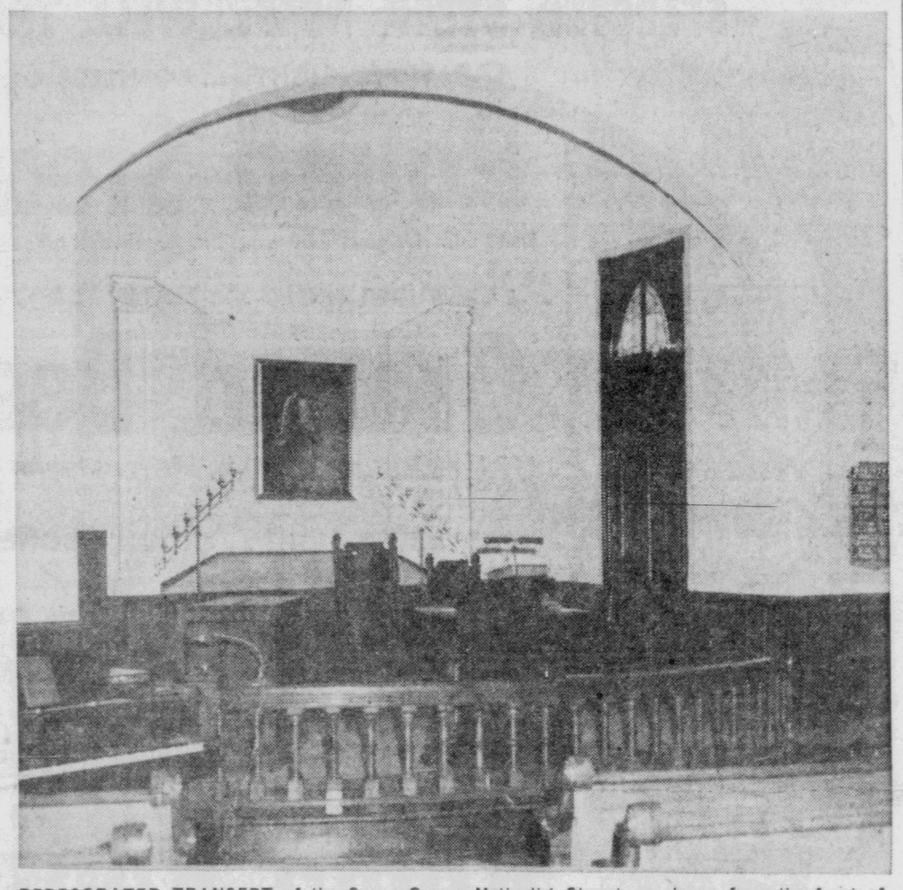

An average of around 40 boys and girls are brought to the church every week by the bus.

Church and Sunday School attendance for January averaged 126.

Sunday School is held every Sunday for both adults and children, but the worship service is held only every other Sunday, because the pastor serves four other churches of the parish.

The state of Ohio has filed suit against Wayne Hoop in Common Pleas Court here for $1,845.02 in damages awarded to Howard Jett by the Bureau of Workmen Compensation for loss of time from work, medical and hospital bills for injuries sustained while in the employ of Hoop. PONDERS INSURANCE CASE

Judge John P. Case of the Common Pleas Court has taken under advisement a request of the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States to decide who should get the money from a $1,000 insurance policy.

The case was brought to court by the Society in settlement of the estates of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Horney, who were fatally injured in an automobile accident on the CCC Highway in October 1955. Their only child also was fatally injured at the same time.

The $1,000 policy was on Mrs. Horney and was issued as a part of a group insurance program of the Dr. Heinz Co. of Bloomingburg where she was employed. Her husband was named the beneficiary.

Mrs. Horney died on Oct. 29, 1955 and her husband the following day. Their son, Victor E. Horney, died Nov. 7, 1955.

Defendants in the case are A. W. Kirkpatrick, administrator of the estate of Joan Horney; Wilbur Horney, father and administrator of the estate of Bill Horney, and Mr. and Mrs. Marvin M. Fulton of Mt. Sterling, parents of Mrs. Bill Horney.

Under the insurance contract, according to the petition, payment on the policy is in this order: to surviving husband or wife, surviving children, parents, brothers and sisters and the executors or administrators of the estates.

The hearing was held by Judge Case Wednesday.

Composer Gene Austin, who wrote "When My Sugar Walks Down the Street," joined the U. S. Army at the age of 15.

Much-Married Manicurist Facing Indiana Bigamy Rap

DAYTON (AP)—Mrs. Cynthia Delores Corraditti, 23, returned to Richmond, Ind., scene of her seventh and most recent marriage, today to face a bigamy charge.

The attractive young manicurist told Dayton police her story of seven marriages, but only four divorces, Monday after Eugene Fultz and Raymond Morris, husbands 6 and 7, learned about each other.

At that time, Mrs. Corraditti, who apparently did not divorce Benni Corraditti after their marriage in 1953, indicated she is expecting a baby and said no one seemed to want her.

Wednesday, however, both Fultz and Morris said they want her back if she can straighten out her entanglement.

And a man and woman, claiming to be her father and mother, phoned from different parts of the country to ask about her.

The man, who identified himself as W. M. Viles of Oklahoma City said he was "out of funds" and unable to come to her.

The woman identified herself as Mrs. Evelyn Boyd of San Diego, Calif. She said she would leave San Diego today and travel east to see Mrs. Corraditti.

"I want to clear this up regardless of what price I have to pay," Mrs. Corraditti declared.

Dayton police said Richmond authorities took the young woman to Indiana where, they said, she was last married on Jan. 14. Detectives said she and Morris indicated it was the first marriage for each when they appeared before John Longstreet, a justice of the peace.

The father of the child Mrs. Corraditti says she is expecting has not been identified.

Besides facing one or more bigamy charges, she was charged here with defrauding the government. Police said she admitted receiving government allotment checks from a husband in the Air Force and another in the Navy.

Overseas Relief Total Told To Ohio Pastors Conference

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Christian churches flew in $673,000 in supplies to Hungarian freedom fighters by volunteer airlines during the first four days of their struggle, an Evangelical and Reformed Church executive said Wednesday night.

Dr. Reginald Helfferich, executive secretary for the Commission on World Service, addressing the 38th annual Ohio Pastors' Convention here, also commended the Christian Rural Overseas Program (CROP) for distributing 200 million pounds of food to needy nations in recent years.

Dr. Helfferich's address followed a talk by Dr. Ross A. Sanderson, associate director of the City Church Department of the National Council of Churches.

Dr. Sanderson called for an urban church department, to work within the Ohio Council of Churches, to see "what cities do to people."

The urban department, he said, would "assess the adequacy with which Ohio Protestantism is keeping pace with urban population growth."

Dr. David H. C. Read, New York City Presbyterian minister, asserted the Protestant church must be held open to everyone.

"To the Lord's table we come not as Jew or Gentile, black or white, rich or poor, but as human sinners seeking forgiveness, life and unity in Him who died for us all," he said.

Bishop F. Gerald Ensley, comparing God's judgment to that of a father, told the convention:

"A father always leaves the door open to a child's return. When we face God's judgment in these terms, we can face the future as a challenge and without fear."

In an earlier address, Dr. Theodore F. Adams, president of the World Baptist Alliance, said that Christianity is challenged and stimulated by today's world.

Today's world, he said, is "a world of fear and hate, a world of discrimination and desperate needs and yet a world of interdependence."

Christians must "do our utmost to win the world to Christ," he said, "the world's only Saviour."

In other activity, first place in the "Prince of Peace" oratory contest went to Eyron Predika, 17-year-old senior at McKinley High School, Niles, Ohio. He will receive $200 and a four-year free-tuition college scholarship.

Second prize went to Allan South, a 16-year-old junior at Fairmount High School south of Dayton. He won $100 and a two-year scholarship.

Grace Wolfersburger, 17, a senior at Shiloh Local School near Mansfield, Ohio, won the third prize of $75 and a one-year scholarship.

Sharon Schwartz, 17, Marietta High School senior; Roberta Pultz, 16-year-old junior at Clearview High School near Lorain, Ohio, and Mary M. Younkman, 17, a senior at Lafayette High School near Lima, each received $50 consolation prizes.

The four-day conference at Franklin County Veterans Memorial building ends today with action on a number of resolutions.

Police Chief Cites Need for Tire Chains

"Many things protect us in winter, and it's our duty to give them a little protection in return," say Police Chief Vaiden Long.

"To help improve our safety record on snow and ice we must try to persuade drivers to equip their cars with a good set of tire chains," the chief explained. "And for the same reason we are interested in having those chains last as long as possible."

Chains should be kept tight, the chief pointed out. Snug chains wear much longer than chains that are loose, particularly over sections of bare pavement. Too, driving speed should be reduced to lessen the impact of car chains on hard surfaces.

"Experts say it isn't the weight of the car, or actual wear, that causes chains to break prematurely," Chief Long advised. "It's the slapping of loose chains against the pavement with great centrifugal force. This causes impact fatigue."

* * *

APPROVED PROCEDURE is to put the chains on as snugly as possible, drive a short distance, then tighten the side chains again.

"Driving allows the chains to adjust themselves, and drivers are usually surprised to learn they can take up one or two more links after driving a short distance," the chief said. "This technique doubles, even quadrupies, the life of a set of chains."

Why use chains when there are stretches of dry pavement?

"Because that slippery stretch ahead, particularly if it's on a hill, may require all the traction your chains can provide to keep you out of serious trouble," replied the chief. "So don't put them on too late, or take them off too soon."

Full 'Home Rule' Power Sought for Villages in Ohio

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A proposal giving village councilmen complete power to decide salaries for all officials in their communities got its first hearing in the state Legislature Wednesday.

Offered by Sen. Charles J. Carney (D-Mahoning) it would affect every community of fewer than 5,000 persons.

Under existing law, village councilmen are limited in pay to $3-$5 a meeting and may be paid for 24 meetings.

Carney and Sen. Stephan R. Olenick (D-Mahoning) introduced a bill earlier in the session to increase councilmen's salaries to $5-$25 a meeting, depending on the village's annual budget.

But Carney came back Wednesday with an amendment that would remove even the $25 limit and would instead give councilmen complete "home rule" in determining pay for themselves and other officials.

Carney's proposal is backed by the Ohio Municipal League.

Big Seaway Project Making Real Progress

Eisenhower lock of St. Lawrence seaway taking form as construction on the great project nears half-way mark.

By H. D. CRAWFORD
(Central Press Association)

WASHINGTON — Dwight D. Eisenhower having completed one term as President, has begun another, while up along the St. Lawrence river the Dwight D. Eisenhower lock in the United States portion of the St. Lawrence seaway is nearing the half-way mark of its construction.

St. Lawrence construction during the last season attracted some 300,000 tourists in the Massena, N. Y., area, and Canadians report a similar number of sightseers at construction points on their side of the river.

Tourist facilities have been established at overlooks on both sides of the broad and historic St. Lawrence. Visitors can watch, at a safe distance, the giant machines excavate canals, dredge channels, build dikes, and pour concrete for locks and dams. These operations have kept the mammoth machines and thousands of workmen busy during the last year on both sides of the river.

• • •

LOOKING AHEAD to the third year of seaway construction, the St. Lawrence Seaway Development corporation, whose headquarters are at Washington, sees a continuation of all phases of seaway work.

The United States is building the 10-mile-long Long Sault canal and two locks, the Eisenhower and the Grasse River.

Each lock will be 860 feet long between upper and lower service gates, and 80 feet wide. Their usable length will be 768 feet.

The minimum depth over silts will be 30 feet. Channels in the river will be a minimum of 27 feet deep and 450 feet wide, while the bottom width of canals will be 442 feet.

• • •

CANADIANS are constructing five locks and various canals in their portion of the seaway. One of these is at Iroquois on the Canadian side of the International rapids section. The others are farther down the stream between Cornwall and Montreal. All but 114 miles of the St. Lawrence flows entirely in Canada.

Construction costs have risen, for both materials and labor, since the original authorizations when the seaway approval was given by Congress in 1954. The United States portion will cost more than $100 million, while the Canadian portion will be about $250 million.

Tolls charged users of the seaway are expected to reimburse both nations for all seaway construction costs and for future maintenance and operation. The two nations are negotiating on a toll system that will be mutually satisfactory, fair to seaway users, and yet adequate to pay construction and maintenance costs.

• • •

ONE OF THE MOST important new projects this year is construction of the high-level suspension bridge between the U. S. and Canada. The superstructure of this international bridge will cost nearly $5 million. Its main span will be 900 feet long, with two end spans each 450 feet long. In addition, 2,145 feet of viaduct spans will be required, 690 feet on the New York state side and 1,455 feet on Canada's Cornwall island.

Construction is getting under way on a new administration building at Massena for the Seaway Development corporation. This modern, $708,200 building will house executive, engineering, operational, comptroller and administrative staffs of the corporation.

Canadians got a head-start on construction of their Administration building for the Seaway Authority, 10 miles downstream and across the river at Cornwall. These structures will be permanent seaway headquarters for the two nations.

Other construction to get under way this year on the U. S. side includes a marine base, maintenance buildings and shops for the locks and canal. Work also will be continued on electrical supply and machinery items, with their installations. Spare lock gates, a gate lifter, floating plant items to service the locks, and navigation aids also are scheduled to get under way this year.

• • •

OPENING of navigation in 1959 is the target date for fullscale operation of the seaway's first phase. This will permit ships to navigate the 27-foot channels into the Great Lakes as far as Toledo.

The second phase, deepening of channels in connecting waters of the upper Great Lakes—the Detroit river, St. Clair river, Lake St. Clair, and St. Mary's river at the Soo—is scheduled for completion in 1962.

Each construction season attracts great numbers of tourists. New York state and Ontario are planning attractive parks bordering on 35-mile-long Lake St. Lawrence.

This lake is not yet formed. It will be created when St. Lawrence waters back up behind the huge dams. And that won't be until late 1958!

Travel organizations already are considering all expense foreign tours to North America's heartland, where travelers might visit Canadian and American cities along the Lawrence and the Great Lakes while continuing to live on their cruise ships.

$657,620 in Series E Bonds Sold in County during 1956

December sales of Series E and H Savings Bonds in Ohio reached $28¼ million for a 12-month sale of $341 million. Sales for both December and the year were the second highest since the end of World War II.

In commenting on this sales report, R. H. Olinger, Chairman of the Fayette County Savings Bonds Committee, stated that Ohio had accomplished 90½ of its 1956 quota as compared to a national attainment of 89 per cent. "Sales of the Series E Bond through the increasingly popular Payroll Savings Plan have reached the highest point of any peacetime year. It is obvious that this installment type of purchase is the easiest way to save today."

December sales of the Series E and H Bond in Fayette County were $30,926 for a yearly total of $657,620.

Five counties, Vinton, Ottawa, Harrison, Holmes and Guernsey, led the state in percentage of sales to quota with Summit County leading all industrial counties.

Liquormen Rap 'Dry Propaganda'

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohio liquor dealers meeting here have taken exception to what they call "dry propaganda" in public schools.

The board of governors of the Retail Liquor Dealers Assn., voted its disapproval of certain literature being used in some schools.

"We don't object to discussion of alcohol in the classroom," said Rupert Rossman of Lima, association president, "but we feel it should come from factual textbooks."

Specifically, he cited one book which he said carried the title "Quiz Book." He said "it implies that liquor is in the same category with narcotics."

More 'Efficient' H-Bomb Hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States has indicated it has found a way to develop more efficient hydrogen bombs.

The Atomic Energy Commission, in its 21st semiannual report to Congress, disclosed that last year's tests at Eniwetok "gave important information relating to design which will lead to more efficient weapons that can be more effectively employed."

The commission declined to amplify but presumably it meant that ways had been found to get more explosive wallop from a given amount of bomb material.

Army Engineers Work Flood Zone

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army Engineers have rushed troops, aircraft and emergency equipment to the flood stricken areas in Kentucky, Virginia and West Virginia.

The Second Army has opened a field disaster center at London, Ky., and a reinforced engineer company from Ft. Knox has arrived in the same town.

The Army has furnished the Red Cross with 1,400 cots, 3,000 blankets and an electrical generator from the quartermaster depot.

Gets Award

DOCTOR Rufus Baker Crain, of Rochester, N. Y., will receive the President's Committee annual Physicians Award for outstanding contributions toward the national program of employment for the physically handicapped. The award will be made at the Congress on Industrial Health in Los Angeles on February 5th.

Niles Boy Wins Speaking Contest

COLUMBUS (AP)—Byron Predika, 17, a senior in Niles High School, today was selected winner of the 1957 Prince of Peace Declamation Contest sponsored by the Ohio Council of Churches.

Six finalists, chosen during local, district and regional elimination events, took part in the finals at the Ohio Pastor's Convention in Veterans Memorial here.

Second-place winner was Allen South, 16, of Dayton, and in third place was Grace Wolfersburger, 17, of Shiloh, Richland County.

Predika received $200 and a four-year college scholarship. South receives $100 and a two-year scholarship, and Miss Wolfersburger receives $75 and a one-year scholarship.

Maglie Popoff Is Aimed at Jack Robinson

CHICAGO (AP) — Jackie Robinson, Don Newcombe and Don Larsen were subjects of a dissertation by Sal Maglie, the Brooklyn Dodger's 39-year-old pitcher whose 13-5 record gave him the National League's '56 comeback honors.

"I don't believe Robinson could get a job as a manager," said Maglie Wednesday when unveiled at a news conference as a member of the advisory committee of a sporting goods company.

"After the way he has popped off recently no ball club would take a chance on him. Nobody would hire him mainly because you couldn't get anybody to play for him after the way he's been rapping other players.

"It's a shame that such a good ball player should sign off that way. I think he could play another year or two of big league ball if he got in shape. He's been weighing around 220 or more pounds. He ought to be down to 200. I'm two years older than Jackie and I think I'm still good for three more years."

Maglie advised young pitchers not to use the no-windup style of Larsen, the New York Yankees orld series perfect game hero.

"A kid could hurt his arm trying it, harm his balance, delivery and aim," he said. "It's all right for fellows like Larsen and Bob Turley. After all, they couldn't get the ball across so they were willing to try anything."

ALL LONG-TIME VETERANS of the major leagues, these oldsters are getting ready for another training season, still with regular employment. Enos Slaughter of the Yanks tops the list, breaking in with the Cardinals in 1938. Then there are Ted Williams of the Red Sox, who started with that club in 1939; Mickey Vernon of the Bosox, who also was a major leaguer in 1939; Early Wynn of the Indians, whose career began with the Nats in 1939; Peewee Reese of the Dodgers, a rookie in the majors in 1940, and Stan Musial of the Cards, a first-year man in 1941 with the same club. Photos above show stars in their early days. (International)

Dressen Hoping Senators To Do Better than Seventh

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of managerial views on the 1957 baseball seeson, written under the manager's own byline.

By CHARLIE DRESSEN

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) —Our goal for 1957 is to improve on our seventh place standing of a year ago. I think we can do it mainly because last season was an experimental year in which we did a lot of gambling by trading off several established big leaguers for promising youngsters.

The fellows we got in return were players who never had a chance to make it in the majors. What they needed most was a year of big league competition under their belts. Some of them, like Lou Berberet, Herb Plews and Whitey Herzog, got it while others gained valuable experience in the minors. They all should be better off for it.

We hope to build our team around such holdovers as Chuck Stobbs, Clint Courtney, Pete Runnels, Roy Sievers, Jim Lemon, Jerry Snyder and Eddie Yost. Stobbs was a 15-game winner. Courtney hit .300 and Runnels .310. Sievers broke the Senators' home run record with 29 and drove in 91 runs.

Lemon, in his first full season, tied for the American League lead in triples with 11, smashed 27 home runs and knocked in 96 runs. Snyder was a .270 hitter and did a good job at shortstop until his wrist was broken by a Virgil Trucks' pitch in mid-season. Yost again led the majors with 151 walks and was a steady man at third base.

However, I intend to focus much of my attention on the many youngsters coming up from the minors. There is Ted Abernathy, a big sidearm righthander who earned a new chance by his 1956 performance at Louisville. He led the American Assn. in strikeouts with 212 and pitched the most complete games, 19.

Another outstanding prospect from Louisville is Neil Chrisley, a 6-3, 190-pound outfielder. Chrisley, only 24, broke the Louisville record for lefthanded hitters by hitting 24 home runs, good for fifth place in the league. He also led the league in doubles with 40.

I intend to take a long look at catchers Dick Hyde, who appeared in 54 games at Chattanooga, tops in the Southern Association; Evelio Hernandez, a Cuban righthander who won 18 and lost only four at Charlotte; Oscar Chinique, who had 11-3 at Hobbs, N. M., in the Southwestern League; Rene Nodarse, who had a 2.26 earned run average at Fort Walton Beach in the Alabama-Florida League; Ted Sadowski, who struck out 109 at Charlotte, and Dick Brodowski, whose 12 complete games at Louisville was third best in the American Association.

Coming back for another shot is bonus baby Harmon Killebrew, who batted .325 at Charlotte in 70 games. He swatted 15 homers and drove in 63 runs, almost one a game. Carlos Paula, a .342 hitter at Louisville and Denver is an outfielder back for another trial. Then there is Dick Tettlebach, a Yale man, who batted .250 at Denver.

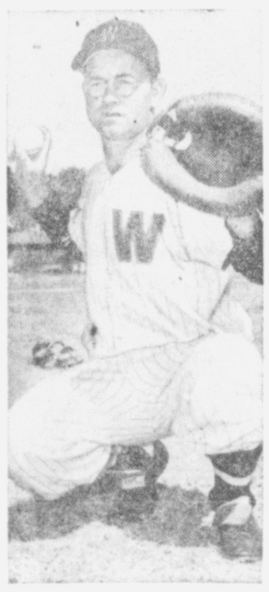

As for the rest of the league, the Yankees look to be the best. I understand Cleveland has some good looking kids coming up. They'll need them to challenge the Yankees.

Chicago needs help, too, to go to the top. Boston was a big disappointment last year. Detroit could be the surprise team of the league. They've got a new manager but he's thoroughly familiar with the personnel, which is good and improving. Baltimore is the team we have to beat out for sixth place. Kansas City is trying hard to improve and they might.

WHITE SOX WOULD LIKE

Roy Sievers

Clint Courtney

TRADE TALKS are being revived and latest report is that the Chicago White Sox would like to get Catcher Clint Courtney and Outfielder Roy Sievers from the Senators. Sievers hit 29 home runs for the capital club last season. (International)

Otterbein '5' Squeezes Win From Oberlin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Otterbein College managed to squeeze out an 85-84 win over Oberlin in an Ohio Conference basketball game Wednesday night at Westerville, but not before the game had gone into its second overtime period.

With 10 minutes left, Oberlin's Jim O'Connor went on a scoring rampage good for 20 points. The rally threw the game into its first overtime. Another rally by Oberlin forced a second overtime.

In other college basketball activity, Dayton staged a second-half drive to defeat DePaul of Chicago, 75-58.

DePaul trailed the host Flyers by a single point with 11 minutes to go. Then Dayton exploded with 12 points to move far ahead.

In Athens, Ohio University's Bobcats breezed to a 103-74 victory over Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va. in a Mid-American Conference encounter.

At Alliance, Geneva (Pa.) College came from behind to gain a 61-57 triumph over Mt. Union.

A Marine invasion of Steubenville was repulsed, but not without a battle. Steubenville came out on top over Quantico Marines, however, 63-62.

Quite a Little Bit Older, But They're Ready for Another Year

Early Wynn, Nats

Peewee Reese, Dodgers

Stan Musial, Cards

Enos Slaughter, Cards

Ted Williams, Red Sox

Mickey Vernon, Nats

ALL LONG-TIME VETERANS of the major leagues, these oldsters are getting ready for another training season, still with regular employment. Enos Slaughter of the Yanks tops the list, breaking in with the Cardinals in 1938. Then there are Ted Williams of the Red Sox, who started with that club in 1939; Mickey Vernon of the Bosox, who also was a major leaguer in 1939; Early Wynn of the Indians, whose career began with the Nats in 1939; Peewee Reese of the Dodgers, a rookie in the majors in 1940, and Stan Musial of the Cards, a first-year man in 1941 with the same club. Photos above show stars in their early days. (International)

Dressen Hoping Senators To Do Better than Seventh

Editor's Note: Following is another in a series of managerial views on the 1957 baseball seeson, written under the manager's own byline.

By CHARLIE DRESSEN

LOS ANGELES, Calif. (AP) —Our goal for 1957 is to improve on our seventh place standing of a year ago. I think we can do it mainly because last season was an experimental year in which we did a lot of gambling by trading off several established big leaguers for promising youngsters.

The fellows we got in return were players who never had a chance to make it in the majors. What they needed most was a year of big league competition under their belts. Some of them, like Lou Berberet, Herb Plews and Whitey Herzog, got it while others gained valuable experience in the minors. They all should be better off for it.

We hope to build our team around such holdovers as Chuck Stobbs, Clint Courtney, Pete Runnels, Roy Sievers, Jim Lemon, Jerry Snyder and Eddie Yost. Stobbs was a 15-game winner. Courtney hit .300 and Runnels .310. Sievers broke the Senators' home run record with 29 and drove in 91 runs.

Lemon, in his first full season, tied for the American League lead in triples with 11, smashed 27 home runs and knocked in 96 runs. Snyder was a .270 hitter and did a good job at shortstop until his wrist was broken by a Virgil Trucks' pitch in mid-season. Yost again led the majors with 151 walks and was a steady man at third base.

However, I intend to focus much of my attention on the many youngsters coming up from the minors. There is Ted Abernathy, a big sidearm righthander who earned a new chance by his 1956 performance at Louisville. He led the American Assn. in strikeouts with 212 and pitched the most complete games, 19.

Another outstanding prospect from Louisville is Neil Chrisley, a 6-3, 190-pound outfielder. Chrisley, only 24, broke the Louisville record for lefthanded hitters by hitting 24 home runs, good for fifth place in the league. He also led the league in doubles with 40.

I intend to take a long look at pitchers Dick Hyde, who appeared in 54 games at Chattanooga, tops in the Southern Association; Evelio Hernandez, a Cuban righthander who won 18 and lost only four at Charlotte; Oscar Chinique, who had 11-3 at Hobbs, N. M., in the Southwestern League; Rene Nodarse, who had a 2.26 earned run average at Fort Walton Beach in the Alabama-Florida League; Ted Sadowski, who struck out 109 at Charlotte, and Dick Brodowski, whose 12 complete games at Louisville was third best in the American Association.

Coming back for another shot is bonus baby Harmon Killebrew, who batted .325 at Charlotte in 70 games. He swatted 15 homers and drove in 63 runs, almost one a game. Carlos Paula, a .342 hitter at Louisville and Denver is an outfielder back for another trial. Then there is Dick Tettlebach, a Yale man, who batted .250 at Denver.

As for the rest of the league, the Yankees look to be the best. I understand Cleveland has some good looking kids coming up. They'll need them to challenge the Yankees.

Chicago needs help, too, to go to the top. Boston was a big disappointment last year. Detroit could be the surprise team of the league. They've got a new manager but he's thoroughly familiar with the personnel, which is good and improving. Baltimore is the team we have to beat out for sixth place. Kansas City is trying hard to improve and they might.

WHITE SOX WOULD LIKE

Roy Sievers

Clint Courtney

TRADE TALKS are being revived and latest report is that the Chicago White Sox would like to get Catcher Clint Courtney and Outfielder Roy Sievers from the Senators. Sievers hit 29 home runs for the capital club last season. (International)

Otterbein '5' Squeezes Win From Oberlin

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Otterbein College managed to squeeze out an 85-84 win over Oberlin in an Ohio Conference basketball game Wednesday night at Westerville, but not before the game had gone into its second overtime period.

With 10 minutes left, Oberlin's Jim O'Connor went on a scoring rampage good for 20 points. The rally threw the game into its first overtime. Another rally by Oberlin forced a second overtime.

In other college basketball activity, Dayton staged a second-half drive to defeat DePaul of Chicago, 75-58.

DePaul trailed the host Flyers by a single point with 11 minutes to go. Then Dayton exploded with 12 points to move far ahead.

In Athens, Ohio University's Bobcats breezed to a 103-74 victory over Marshall College of Huntington, W. Va. in a Mid-American Conference encounter.

At Alliance, Geneva (Pa.) College came from behind to gain a 61-57 triumph over Mt. Union.

A Marine invasion of Steubenville was repulsed, but not without a battle. Steubenville came out on top over Quantico Marines, however, 63-62.

Pro Football Chiefs Set for Final Draft

Owners Slated To Pick Cream of College Crop In Annual Conference

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League opened its three day annual meeting today with the college player draft.

Commissioner Bert Bell immediately faced the business of completing the 30 round player draft.

The 12 teams drafted according to their final position in the 1956 NFL race with the last place Philadelphia Eagles selecting first and the world champion New York Giants last.

Expected to highlight the owners meeting to follow the draft is the list of demands by the newly formed NFL Players Assn.

Actually, only 24 rounds of the draft were to be held today. The first four rounds were held at a special session in November in order to give NFL teams an even start with Canadian league clubs in bidding for the cream of last year's American college football player crop.

Forty eight players were taken in the November draft, including eight of the 1956 college All-America team. Of the remaining three, one, John Majors Tennessee back, has signed with a Canadian team; Alex Karras, Iowa tackle is only a junior, and John Witte, Oregon State tackle, was taken in 1955 when his original class graduated. There are, however, a host of brilliant college performers up for grabs.

Bell made it plain that only college seniors, or players whose original class had graduated were eligible for the pro draft. Players in the Pacific Coast Conference ruled ineligible by the conference for further competition, but whose class has not graduated are not eligible. C. R. Roberts, 206-pound star fullback of Southern California is a junior who loses a year of eligibility under a PCC ruling. He is not, however, available in this draft.

The draft was expected to take up the entire first day of the annual meeting, lasting well into tonight.

Commissioner Bert Bell is expected to report on a very favorable 1956, a year in which the league set a new attendance record, found peace with Canada over player raids, and partook of record television and radio receipts. Reportedly, every team in the league, including the last place Eagles, were in the black financially last year.

Bell said after Wednesday's association - league meeting that he would present the player demands to the owners at the sessions starting today. If no action is taken by the owners, Bell said he would arrange another meeting between the owners and the player spokesmen.

Rule Changes Seen Curbing Big 10 Scores

CHICAGO (AP)—Rules interpretation in the Big Ten are putting a brake on scoring this season, official statistics indicated today.

With nearly half of the campaign gone, Archie Dees of Indiana continues to lead conference sharpshooters with a 24.2 average, followed by Frank Howard of Ohio State with 21.1 and George Bon Salle of Illinois with 20.2.

Last year Ohio State's Robin Freeman won the scoring crown with 32.5. At the same time, Iowa's Bill Logan finished 10th with 18.8, the same average that currently is good for fourth place held by Minnesota's George Kline.

The first nine scorers last season averaged more than 20 points, but this year only the top three have hit better than that figure.

The dropoff possibly stems from the rules interpretation in which the bonus free throw is not awarded until after an opponent has committed more than six fouls in a half, and in the instruction to officials not to call back court fouls unless they affect control.

The leading 11 scorers have netted 21 per cent of their points from the free throw line. Freeman got 28 per cent of his on gift shots and runnerup Julius McCoy of Michigan State 26 per cent.

Three of the best current scorers are ahead of the field goal accuracy mark of .504 per cent set by Don Schlundt of Indiana in 1954. Howard has .544, Kline .545 and Illinois' Hiles Stout with .563.

The top team percentage is held by Ohio State with .459 of its field goal attempts with Illinois next at .424. Indiana's .732 on free throws is tops with Ohio State's .701 next.

Kenny Lane Eyes Lightweight Title

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A co-manager of Kenny Lane said today his fighter is "ready for a title bout" and he's "prepared to post $75,000" for a shot at the lightweight championship.

Jack (Doc) Kearns, whose boy scored a sixth round technical knockout victory Wednesday night over Frankie Ryff, said "we'll win the lightweight title."

Lane, ranked the No. 2 contender for the lightweight crown held by Joe Brown, had rated this rematch with Ryff the key fight in his bid to take on the winner of the Brown-Bud Smith title fight Feb. 13 in Miami.

WHS Juniors Edge Bloomingburg 'B's'

The Washington C. H. junior high basketball squad edged out the Bloomingburg juniors Wednesday night, 23-30, in a hard-fought battle at Bloomingburg.

Though the Washington C. H. five never relinquished the lead, the Bloomingburg team kept it on the move every minute of the game.

Scoring for Bloomingburg: R. Ayers, 5; L. Ayers, 1; Harris, 7; Michaels, 4; Foster, 2; Knisley, 2; and Grim, 2.

For Washington, scoring was in the hands of Seamen, 6; Miller, 2; Wilson, 4; Crouse, 3; Reno, 8; and Pavey, 7.

Score by periods:

Bloomingburg	7	6	2	8	— 23

Proposal Aimed At OSU Grid TV

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Legislature has before it a new attempt to force unlimited televising of Ohio State University football games.

House Minority Leader James J. McGettrick and Rep. Francis D. Sullivan, Cleveland Democrats, Wednesday asked for a new law to prohibit membership of state-supported universities in associations which restrict televising of athletic events.

Such a bill, if passed, would affect the 1957 and 1958 football seasons.

Similar legislation got nowhere two years ago.

Cincy Group Eyes Pro Cage Charter

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Cincinnati group's hopes for a National Basketball Assn. franchise for this city may be up for consideration here today.

Robert L. Siegel, Cincinnati attorney and leader of a group campaigning for the franchise, said he has been invited to meet with Les Harrison, general manager of the Rochester Royals. He said he "assumed" Harrison wanted to talk about the possibility of the Cincinnati group buying the Rochester franchise and, he added:

"There's a good chance we will buy the team."

Duquesne Cager Lengthens Record

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Dave Ricketts, star Duquesne basketball player, ran his streak of consecutive foul conversions to 40 Wednesday night.

Dave was flawless as he established the new collegiate foul shooting mark while scoring 28 points and leading Duquesne to a 71-67 victory over St. Francis of Brooklyn at Pitt Fieldhouse. He got eight foul chances in the second half, winding up with a 10 for 10 night. Where he'll stop no one knows, including Dave.

Al Rosen Says Retirement Final

CLEVELAND (AP) — Al Rosen says "nothing in the world" can make him change his mind about retiring from baseball.

The 33-year-old Cleveland third baseman said last fall that he would not be back this season, but that the formal announcement would come from the Indians.

He sent a note to friends and customers Wednesday announcing that he would remain at his job as a stockbroker. He admitted he was asked for a delay in announcement of his retirement, but said he couldn't wait any longer.

Pay-as Go Deal Pledged by O'Neill

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Reiterating his opposition to a state income tax, Gov. C. William O'Neill Wednesday promised the state government would operate within limits of anticipated revenue on a pay-as-you-go basis.

He addressed Mahoning and Trumbull County Republican leaders here. He is in this area for a series of McKinley Day speeches.

County League Season To Close Friday Night

The Fayette County Basketball League ends its regular season Friday night, and all the rail-sitters are predicting it will be a photo-finish.

Jeffersonville leads the league with a 5-0 record at this time. But if they should lose to Bloomingburg on the Bulldogs' court Friday night, things would be all tied up.

Bloomingburg, with a 4-1 record, is breathing right down the league leader's neck.

Jeff beat Bloomingburg in an earlier encounter, 57-48, but both teams have good records and the grandstand experts are saying that anything could happen Friday.

Whatever does happen all four teams in the league—Jeff, Bloomingburg Madison Mills and Good Hope—will have a chance to wrangle things out all over again in the county basketball tourney which gets under way Feb. 13.

* * *

IN ANOTHER game this Friday, Madison Mills tackles Wayne at Good Hope. Though the game was originally scheduled for Madison Mills, officials of the two teams agreed Wednesday to play the Friday contest at Good Hope.

Neither Madison Mills nor Wayne has fared too well within the league this season, but both teams have done some sharp playing and this game could be a tight one, too.

Although this will be the last league game for each team, they all have other games on their schedules between now and tournament time

Jeffersonville goes up to Williamsport Feb. 5 and over to Madison South on Feb. 8 for another. Good Hope will play host to Atlanta Feb. 8, while Bloomingburg will visit West Jefferson on Feb. 5. Madison Mills also has one more game after Friday — a contest at South Salem set for Feb 9.

* * *

TWO OTHER important basketball games will be played Friday night outside of the County League. The Washington C. H. five will tangle with Circleville here, in a game that could push them one step nearer the South Central Ohio League lead. Wilmington presently leads the loop, but things are getting plenty tight.

Over in Pickaway County, New Holland will battle a hard - fighting Darby High School team at Darbyville. New Holland hasn't played Darby yet this season, but all indications are that it will be a real scramble.

Attorney Dies During Hearing

CLEVELAND (AP)—A Cleveland attorney, Theodore T. Sindell, 51, died of a heart attack Wednesday during a trial in common pleas court. He went into the chambers of Judge J. P. Corrigan after completing cross examination of a witness in a $75,000 automobile accident damage suit.

The witness, a doctor, pronounced him dead a few minutes later after a bailiff found him slumped in a chair at the judge's desk. Judge Corrigan declared a mistrial and dismissed the jury.

Saunders Mill Slated for Sale

TOLEDO (AP)—Saunders Mills of Toledo say agreement has been reached in principle on its sale to Grain Elevator Warehouse Co. of Philadelphia.

Reports from Philadelphia indicate the price will be in excess of $1 million.

Saunders operates 14 alfalfa dehydrating plants in Ohio, California, Arizona, Idaho, Colorado, Nebraska, Tennessee and Missouri and has a 62 per cent interest in Central Mills, Inc., another Toledo alfalfa dehydrating firm.

Pro Football Chiefs Set for Final Draft

Owners Slated To Pick Cream of College Crop In Annual Conference

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The National Football League opened its three day annual meeting today with the college player draft.

Commissioner Bert Bell immediately faced the business of completing the 30 round player draft.

The 12 teams drafted according to their final position in the 1956 NFL race with the last place Philadelphia Eagles selecting first and the world champion New York Giants last.

Expected to highlight the owners meeting to follow the draft is the list of demands by the newly formed NFL Players Assn.

Actually, only 24 rounds of the draft were to be held today. The first four rounds were held at a special session in November in order to give NFL teams an even start with Canadian league clubs in bidding for the cream of last year's American college football player crop.

Forty eight players were taken in the November draft, including eight of the 1956 college All-America team. Of the remaining three, one, John Majors, Tennessee back, has signed with a Canadian team; Alex Karras, Iowa tackle is only a junior, and John Witte, Oregon State tackle, was taken in 1955 when his original class graduated. There are, however, a host of brilliant college performers up for grabs.

Bell made it plain that only college seniors, or players whose original class had graduated were eligible for the pro draft. Players in the Pacific Coast Conference ruled ineligible by the conference for further competition, but whose class has not graduated are not eligible. C. R. Roberts, 206-pound star fullback of Southern California is a junior who loses a year of eligibility under a PCC ruling. He is not, however, available in this draft.

The draft was expected to take up the entire first day of the annual meeting, lasting well into tonight.

Commissioner Bert Bell is expected to report on a very favorable 1956, a year in which the league set a new attendance record, found peace with Canada over player raids, and partook of record television and radio receipts. Reportedly, every team in the league, including the last place Eagles, were in the black financially last year.

Bell said after Wednesday's association - league meeting that he would present the player demands to the owners at the sessions starting today. If no action is taken by the owners. Bell said he would arrange another meeting between the owners and the player spokesmen.

Rule Changes Seen Curbing Big 10 Scores

CHICAGO (AP)—Rules interpretation in the Big Ten are putting a brake on scoring this season, official statistics indicated today.

With nearly half of the campaign gone, Archie Dees of Indiana continues to lead conference sharpshooters with a 24.2 average, followed by Frank Howard of Ohio State with 21.1 and George Bon Salle of Illinois with 20.2.

Last year Ohio State's Robin Freeman won the scoring crown with 32.5. At the same time, Iowa's Bill Logan finished 10th with 18.8, the same average that currently is good for fourth place held by Minnesota's George Kline.

The first nine scorers last season averaged more than 20 points, but this year only the top three have hit better than that figure.

The dropoff possibly stems from the rules interpretation in which the bonus free throw is not awarded until after an opponent has committed more than six fouls in a half, and in the instruction to officials not to call back court fouls unless they affect control.

The leading 11 scorers have netted 21 per cent of their points from the free throw line. Freeman got 28 per cent of his on gift shots and runnerup Julius McCoy of Michigan State 26 per cent.

Three of the best current scorers are ahead of the field goal accuracy mark of .504 per cent set by Don Schlundt of Indiana in 1954. Howard has .544, Kline .545 and Illinois' Hiles Stout with .563.

The top team percentage is held by Ohio State with .459 of its field goal attempts with Illinois next at .424. Indiana's .732 on free throws is tops with Ohio State's .701 next.

Kenny Lane Eyes Lightweight Title

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—A co-manager of Kenny Lane said today his fighter is "ready for a title bout" and he's "prepared to post $75,000' for a shot at the lightweight championship.

Jack (Doc) Kearns, whose boy scored a sixth round technical knockout victory Wednesday night over Frankie Ryff, said "we'll win the lightweight title."

Lane, ranked the No. 2 contender for the lightweight crown held by Joe Brown, had rated this rematch with Ryff the key fight in his bid to take on the winner of the Brown-Bud Smith title fight Feb. 13 in Miami.

WHS Juniors Edge Bloomingburg 'B's'

The Washington C. H. junior high basketball squad edged out the Bloomingburg juniors Wednesday night, 23-30, in a hard-fought battle at Bloomingburg.

Though the Washington C. H. five never relinquished the lead, the Bloomingburg team kept it on the move every minute of the game.

Only in the last quarter did the Washington C. H. squad really begin to move out in front.

Scoring for Bloomingburg: R. Ayers, 5; L. Ayers, 1; Harris, 7; Michaels, 4; Foster, 2; Knisley, 2; and Grim, 2.

For Washington, scoring was in the hands of Seamen, 6; Miller, 2; Wilson, 4; Crouse, 3; Reno, 8; and Pavey, 7.

Score by periods:

Bloomingburg	7	6	2	8	— 23
Wash. C. H.	10	7	2	11	— 30

Proposal Aimed At OSU Grid TV

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Legislature has before it a new attempt to force unlimited televising of Ohio State University football games.

House Minority Leader James J. McGettrick and Rep. Francis D. Sullivan, Cleveland Democrats, Wednesday asked for a new law to prohibit membership of state-supported universities in associations which restrict televising of athletic events.

Such a bill, if passed, would affect the 1957 and 1958 football seasons.

Similar legislation got nowhere two years ago.

Cincy Group Eyes Pro Cage Charter

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Cincinnati group's hopes for a National Basketball Assn. franchise for this city may be up for consideration here today.

Robert L. Siegel, Cincinnati attorney and leader of a group campaigning for the franchise, said he has been invited to meet with Les Harrison, general manager of the Rochester Royals. He said he "assumed" Harrison wanted to talk about the possibility of the Cincinnati group buying the Rochester franchise and, he added:

"There's a good chance we will buy the team."

Duquesne Cager Lengthens Record

PITTSBURGH (AP)— Dave Ricketts, star Duquesne basketball player, ran his streak of consecutive foul conversions to 40 Wednesday night.

Dave was flawless as he established the new collegiate foul shooting mark while scoring 28 points and leading Duquesne to a 71-67 victory over St. Francis of Brooklyn at Pitt Fieldhouse. He got eight foul chances in the second half, winding up with a 10 for 10 night. Where he'll stop no one knows, including Dave.

Al Rosen Says Retirement Final

CLEVELAND (AP) — Al Rosen says "nothing in the world" can make him change his mind about retiring from baseball.

The 33-year-old Cleveland third baseman said last fall that he would not be back this season, but that the formal announcement would come from the Indians.

He sent a note to friends and customers Wednesday announcing that he would remain at his job as a stockbroker. He admitted he was asked for a delay in announcement of his retirement, but said he couldn't wait any longer

Pay-as Go Deal Pledged by O'Neill

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Reiterating his opposition to a state income tax, Gov. C. William O'Neill Wednesday promised the state government would operate within limits of anticipated revenue on a pay-as-you-go basis.

He addressed Mahoning and Trumbull County Republican leaders here. He is in this area for a series of McKinley Day speeches.

County League Season To Close Friday Night

The Fayette County Basketball League ends its regular season Friday night, and all the rail-sitters are predicting it will be a photo-finish.

Jeffersonville leads the league with a 5-0 record at this time. But if they should lose to Bloomingburg on the Bulldogs' court Friday night, things would be all tied up.

Bloomingburg, with a 4-1 record, is breathing right down the league leader's neck.

Jeff beat Bloomingburg in an earlier encounter, 57-48, but both teams have good records and the grandstand experts are saying that anything could happen Friday.

Whatever does happen all four teams in the league—Jeff, Bloomingburg Madison Mills and Good Hope—will have a chance to wrangle things out all over again in the county basketball tourney which gets under way Feb. 13.

* * *

IN ANOTHER game this Friday, Madison Mills tackles Wayne at Good Hope. Though the game was originally scheduled for Madison Mills, officials of the two teams agreed Wednesday to play the Friday contest at Good Hope.

Neither Madison Mills nor Wayne has fared too well within the league this season, but both teams have done some sharp playing and this game could be a tight one, too.

Although this will be the last league game for each team, they all have other games on their schedules between now and tournament time

Jeffersonville goes up to Williamsport Feb. 5 and over to Madison South on Feb. 8 for another. Good Hope will play host to Atlanta Feb. 8, while Bloomingburg will visit West Jefferson on Feb. 5. Madison Mills also has one more game after Friday — a contest at South Salem set for Feb. 9.

* * *

TWO OTHER important basketball games will be played Friday night outside of the County League. The Washington C. H. five will tangle with Circleville here, in a game that could push them one step nearer the South Central Ohio League lead. Wilmington presently leads the loop, but things are getting plenty tight.

Over in Pickaway County, New Holland will battle a hard - fighting Darby High School team at Darbyville. New Holland hasn't played Darby yet this season, but all indications are that it will be a real scramble.

Juvenile Judges Seek Law Aimed Against Parents

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Assn. of Juvenile Judges has been urged to oppose enactment of legislation making parents liable for malicious destruction of property by their children.

Don J. Young Jr. of Norwalk, Huron County juvenile judge, told the annual meeting of the judges Wednesday:

"We should be the first to oppose the enactment of legislation that will not, clearly, promote fairness and justice."

He said a statute which is the result of the "emotional idea that we ought to do something about juvenile delinquency, so let's make the parents pay some damages, is only going to complicat eunnecessarily already well established legal developments."

In another talk, Judge Albert A. Woldman of Cleveland said juvenile traffic cases should be retained in juvenile court and not removed to the jurisdiction of another court.

Garage Damaged

DAYTON (AP)—Fire Wednesday destroyed the St. John Transportation Co. garage here, causing damage estimated at $175,000. Leaking gasoline apparently caused the blaze, firemen said.

Juvenile Judges Seek Law Aimed Against Parents

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Assn. of Juvenile Judges has been urged to oppose enactment of legislation making parents liable for malicious destruction of property by their children.

Don J. Young Jr. of Norwalk, Huron County juvenile judge, told the annual meeting of the judges Wednesday:

"We should be the first to oppose the enactment of legislation that will not, clearly, promote fairness and justice."

He said a statute which is the result of the "emotional idea that we ought to do something about juvenile delinquency, so let's make the parents pay some damages, is only going to complicat eunnecessarily already well established legal developments."

In another talk, Judge Albert A. Woldman of Cleveland said juvenile traffic cases should be retained in juvenile court and not removed to the jurisdiction of another court.

Garage Damaged

DAYTON (AP)—Fire Wednesday destroyed the St. John Transportation Co. garage here, causing damage estimated at $175,000. Leaking gasoline apparently caused the blaze, firemen said.

IT'S SO EASY TO PLACE A WANT AD.

Added Diabetic Research Needed

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Physicians are continuing to look into the possibility to treating diabetics without the use of insulin injections.

But at this stage, much more research is needed before non-insulin pills can be given widespread use, says Dr. Rachmiel Levine of Chicago's Reese Hospital.

Dr. Levine yesterday addressed some 200 diabetics specialists meeting for a postgraduate diabetic course at Ohio State University.

He said that in any event, persons who develop diabetes as children or in their youth probably will have to continue with insulin treatment.

Justice Reed To Quit Seat On Supreme Court Feb. 25

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed, effective Feb. 25. Reed, 72, has served on the nation's highest judicial tribunal 19 years.

The naming of his successor will be Eisenhower's fourth appointee on the Supreme Court. His other appointees are Chief Justice Warren and Justices Harlan and Brennan.

The White House said it had nothing to announce at this time regarding a successor.

Reed turned in a letter of resignation, dated today, saying he wished to retire.

He is taking advantage of a provision of law which allows him to retire at full pay and subject to call for occasional service on the court if this is desired.

The White House indicated that Reed might have let the President know his intentions in advance of submission of the letter. That may have taken place at a White House reception honoring the Supreme Court on Tuesday night.

* * *

EISENHOWER, in a letter to Reed, said he was taking the opportunity "to tender my congratulations on your long and splendid record in public service."

He also praised Reed's "dedication and devotion that are so much a part of your reputation."

Reed, a Democrat appointed by President Roosevelt, reached the age of 72 Dec. 31. Present law permits federal judges to retire at 70 after 10 years service on the bench.

Reed's retirement pay will be $35,000 a year, the same as his salary.

Reed's retirement is the second from the Supreme Court since its new term began last Oct. 1. Justice Sherman Minton retired Oct. 15, because of failing health.

Two other members of the high bench are eligible for retirement, but neither has given any indication that he plans to step down. Justice Black will be 71 on Feb. 27 and Justice Frankfurter was 74 Nov. 15.

Metal Price Fluctuations Under Study

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Cross currents in prices and demand are running through the metals industries today—and in turn eddying through the stock market.

Steel scrap prices tumble while finished steel product prices continue to edge higher. Demand for some steel products holds strong as ever, while for others it softens.

Copper men cite a wide gap in prices asked for the metal around the world while producers' supplies pile up. And copper product makers worry over a drop in new orders. Prices soften for copper and scrap and for brass and bronze ingots.

Aluminum supply at last catches up with demand and its makers seek new markets and new uses.

Lead and zinc look largely to Uncle Sam's stockpiling purchase to hold them firm.

Most steelmen insist that 1957 will be a good year for them. Production has been holding near capacity for months and total orders seem to indicate it will for some time to come.

Copper men point out that over the years copper has usually followed the trend in steel—since they share many of the same customers, such as autos, appliances, construction. And the copper men say that the present lull for them could be short lived.

But both steel and copper men watch the scrap market as a frequent good barometer. Often when scrap prices turn soft, metal production may be in for some slackening.

Steel mills have been watching mostly the drop in demand for their product by the auto companies. Like the car makers they are waiting to see how strong is the traditional spring rise in demand for autos.

Disturbed by report of slackening demand for distant deliveries, stock traders have been bidding down shares prices.

There has been no slackening in demand reported for structural steel or for the heavy plates that go into ship building and freight car building. Announced plans for continued business spending on expansion and plans for still more office buildings hearten this segment of the steel industry.

These plans and the expansion program of the electric utilities are cited by the copper men as assuring them a fair market, even if the auto and appliance industries don't perk up as much in the spring as hoped.

Slight Hike Noted In Farmer Prices

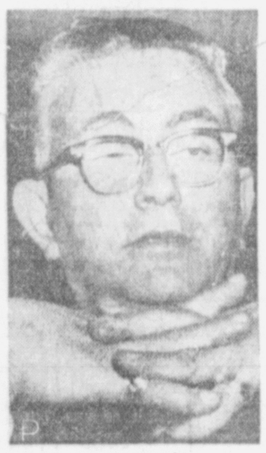

WASHINGTON (AP) — A slight new boost in farm prices has raised the mid-January level to 5 per cent above a year ago.

The Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that average prices of farm products rose fourtenths of 1 per cent between mid-December and Jan. 15.

It also reported that prices paid by farmers reached a new high during that same period, rising two-thirds of 1 per cent. The mid-January level of prices paid by farmers was 3.7 per cent above that of a year ago.

The new increase in prices paid by farmers was 3.7 per cent above that of a year ago.

No Coat Tales

THOMAS DI GIACOMO, Paterson, N. J., presented this chin-resting aspect at the Senate investigations subcommittee's hearing in Washington as Senator John McClellan (D), Arkansas, declared Di Giacomo and his associate, Jack Rogers, were "not the right kind of characters for the government to deal with." Di Giacomo had refused to state whether he was paying government employes to get contracts with the Defense department. He and Rogers are clothing manufacturers. (International)

At Least 7 Whites Held In Bombings

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — City detectives sought new evidence today in a continuing investigation which has already put at least seven white men in jail for the recent bombings of Negro homes and churches.

Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers announced Wednesday night that "seven or eight" men are being held for the dynamiting of four churches and three dwellings in an outburst of violence following the end of segregation on city buses.

"Several" have signed statements admitting participation in the bombings, he said.

Sellers said that one of the men, identified as Henry Alexander, 27, admitted shooting into a bus.

Segregation barriers were hauled down on Montgomery buses under a federal court order Dec. 21. In all of the attacks, only one person was seriously injured. A young Negro woman passenger was shot in both legs by a sniper who ambushed one bus.

Sellers' announcement came one year to the day after the first bomb exploded in the bitter struggle over bus segregation.

The home of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led a year-long mass Negro bus boycott that preceded the U. S. Supreme Court ruling against segregation, was dynamited the night of Jan. 30, 1956. No one was injured.

AFL-CIO Split Seen Goal of Trades Unions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A building trades union clique, spearheaded by the Teamsters Union, threatened today to break up the AFL-CIO merger.

The building trades group, claiming about 3 million of the AFL-CIO's 15 million members, suddenly stirred up a long-quiet revolt into a red hot fight against former CIO unions for job rights.

The Teamsters Union, largest AFL-CIO affiliate currently in dutch with Congress for advising its officers they would lose nothing avoiding testimony in labor racket probes, seems to be stirring up the building trades.

Teamsters Vice President James R. Hoffa of Detroit, the union's Midwest boss, has been a major figure in most meetings planning the revolt.

The latest development came in a statement by the building trades group that it will seek to "regain work now being performed by other organizations." This spells "war" to most former CIO unions.

Unions of both the former AFL and former CIO have conflicting jurisdictional authority in their charters — power to assign members to work.

As Hoffa put it to reporters, "We are out to recapture members the CIO crowd got that we ought to have."

Senate Plans Long Hearing On Ike's Mid-East Setup

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate leaders said today President Eisenhower's Middle East resolution faces extensive revision and at least another week of hearings.

The House made only minor changes in passing the measure Wednesday by a 355-61 vote.

The resolution would enable Eisenhower to make up to $200 million available for military and economic aid to the Middle East, and give advance approval for use of U. S. troops to halt overt Communist aggression there.

Contrasting House action with that in the Senate, Chairman Gordon (D-Ill) of the House Foreign Affairs Committee said the House's "overwhelming vote, within little more than three weeks after receiving the President's request, is another proof that the so-called lower body of the Congress can act expeditiously and with statesmanship to meet an urgent situation."

The Senate Foreign Relations and Armed Services Committees have been holding joint hearings for the last three weeks.

Chairman Russell (D-Ga) of the latter group said today the hearings will continue at least until the end of next week and possibly into the week following. The committee then must consider amendments before acting on the resolution itself.

The senators heard Adm. Arthur W. Radford, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, Wednesday and recessed until Friday, when Secretary of State Dulles will return for more questioning.

Several senators reported that Democratic leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas is working on an extensive rewriting of the resolution designed to meet objections from Democrats.

Sen. Humphrey (D-Minn) charged meantime that the "Pressure" exerted by the administration for passage of the resolution "has placed the whole foreign aid program in jeopardy.

"It has done more to solidify the growing opposition to economic aid than anything I have experienced since coming to Congress."

Another clash between the Congress and the executive was foreshadowed Wednesday by Eisenhower's assertion he by no means will give inquiring senators any of his correspondence with other heads of the state.

He said it would be a betrayal of confidential relations with other world leaders, and added he doesn't think Congress wants his correspondence.

Justice Reed To Quit Seat On Supreme Court Feb. 25

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower today accepted the resignation of Supreme Court Justice Stanley Reed, effective Feb. 25. Reed, 72, has served on the nation's highest judicial tribunal 19 years.

The naming of his successor will be Eisenhower's fourth appointee on the Supreme Court. His other appointees are Chief Justice Warren and Justices Harlan and Brennan.

The White House said it had nothing to announce at this time regarding a successor.

Reed turned in a letter of resignation, dated today, saying he wished to retire.

He is taking advantage of a provision of law which allows him to retire at full pay and subject to call for occasional service on the court if this is desired.

The White House indicated that Reed might have let the President know his intentions in advance of submission of the letter. That may have taken place at a White House reception honoring the Supreme Court on Tuesday night.

* * *

EISENHOWER, in a letter to Reed, said he was taking the opportunity "to tender my congratulations on your long and splendid record in public service."

He also praised Reed's "dedication and devotion that are so much a part of your reputation."

Reed, a Democrat appointed by President Roosevelt, reached the age of 72 Dec. 31. Present law permits federal judges to retire at 70 after 10 years service on the bench.

Reed's retirement pay will be $35,000 a year, the same as his salary.

Reed's retirement is the second from the Supreme Court since its new term began last Oct. 1. Justice Sherman Minton retired Oct. 15, because of failing health.

Two other members of the high bench are eligible for retirement, but neither has given any indication that he plans to step down. Justice Black will be 71 on Feb. 27 and Justice Frankfurter was 74 Nov. 15.

Metal Price Fluctuations Under Study

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Cross currents in prices and demand are running through the metals industries today—and in turn eddying through the stock market.

Steel scrap prices tumble while finished steel product prices continue to edge higher. Demand for some steel products holds strong as ever, while for others it softens.

Copper men cite a wide gap in prices asked for the metal around the world while producers' supplies pile up. And copper product makers worry over a drop in new orders. Prices soften for copper and scrap and for brass and bronze ingots.

Aluminum supply at last catches up with demand and its makers seek new markets and new uses.

Lead and zinc look largely to Uncle Sam's stockpiling purchase to hold them firm.

Most steelmen insist that 1957 will be a good year for them. Production has been holding near capacity for months and total orders seem to indicate it will for some time to come.

Copper men point out that over the years copper has usually followed the trend in steel—since they share many of the same customers, such as autos, appliances, construction. And the copper men say that the present lull for them could be short lived.

But both steel and copper men watch the scrap market as a frequent good barometer. Often when scrap prices turn soft, metal production may be in for some slackening.

Steel mills have been watching mostly the drop in demand for their product by the auto companies. Like the car makers they are waiting to see how strong is the traditional spring rise in demand for autos.

Disturbed by report of slackening demand for distant deliveries, stock traders have been bidding down shares prices.

There has been no slackening in demand reported for structural steel or for the heavy plates that go into ship building and freight car building. Announced plans for continued business spending on expansion and plans for still more office buildings hearten this segment of the steel industry.

These plans and the expansion program of the electric utilities are cited by the copper men as assuring them a fair market, even if the auto and appliance industries don't perk up as much in the spring as hoped.

Slight Hike Noted In Farmer Prices

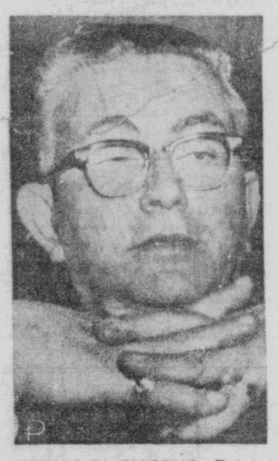

WASHINGTON (AP) — A slight new boost in farm prices has raised the mid-January level to 5 per cent above a year ago.

The Agriculture Department reported Wednesday that average prices of farm products rose fourtenths of 1 per cent between mid-December and Jan. 15.

It also reported that prices paid by farmers reached a new high during that same period, rising two-thirds of 1 per cent. The mid-January level of prices paid by farmers was 3.7 per cent above that of a year ago.

The new increase in prices paid by farmers was 3.7 per cent above that of a year ago.

Di Giacomo had refused to state whether he was paying government employes to get contracts with the Defense department. He and Rogers are clothing manufacturers. (International)

At Least 7 Whites Held In Bombings

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — City detectives sought new evidence today in a continuing investigation which has already put at least seven white men in jail for the recent bombings of Negro homes and churches.

Police Commissioner Clyde Sellers announced Wednesday night that "seven or eight" men are being held for the dynamiting of four churches and three dwellings in an outburst of violence following the end of segregation on city buses.

"Several" have signed statements admitting participation in the bombings, he said.

Sellers said that one of the men, identified as Henry Alexander, 27, admitted shooting into a bus.

Segregation barriers were hauled down on Montgomery buses under a federal court order Dec. 21. In all of the attacks, only one person was seriously injured. A young Negro woman passenger was shot in both legs by a sniper who ambushed one bus.

Sellers' announcement came one year to the day after the first bomb exploded in the bitter struggle over bus segregation.

The home of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led a yearlong mass Negro bus boycott that preceded the U. S. Supreme Court ruling against segregation, was dynamited the night of Jan. 30, 1956. No one was injured.

AFL-CIO Split Seen Goal of Trades Unions

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A building trades union clique, spearheaded by the Teamsters Union, threatened today to break up the AFL-CIO merger.

The building trades group, claiming about 3 million of the AFL-CIO's 15 million members, suddenly stirred up a long-quiet revolt into a red hot fight against former CIO unions for job rights.

The Teamsters Union, largest AFL-CIO affiliate currently in dutch with Congress for advising its officers they would lose nothing avoiding testimony in labor racket probes, seems to be stirring up the building trades.

Teamsters Vice President James R. Hoffa of Detroit, the union's Midwest boss, has been a major figure in most meetings planning the revolt.

The latest development came in a statement by the building trades group that it will seek to "regain work now being performed by other organizations." This spells "war" to most former CIO unions.

Unions of both the former AFL and former CIO have conflicting jurisdictional authority in their charters — power to assign members to work.

As Hoffa put it to reporters, "We are out to recapture members the CIO crowd got that we ought to have."
